BIG AIR RAID ON SCOTLAND COAST

REPEL AIR RAIDERS

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 16 (INS)—Nazi bombing planes brought Europe's war to Scotland for the first time since hostilities began today, sweeping over Edinburgh in an attack on coastal objectives, losing at least three of their number but dropping some bombs.

One eye-witness indicated the immediate object of the attack was the famous bridge across the Fifth of Forth, where he reported a number of bombs were dropped.

The railway bridge across the Firth, one of the best known in the world, was erected in 1890 at a cost of $15,000,000. The bridge has two spans, with a total length of 5330 feet.

No bombs struck the bridge, however, it was asserted.

One German plane flew low in the Turnhouse district near Edinburgh and apparently machine-gunned objects.

One report said that in addition to two Nazi craft brought down in Fifeshire, a third plunged into the Firth of Forth.

An official announcement describing one of the most dramatic chapters of the war to date merely said Royal Air Force planes had "inflicted casualties" upon the attackers.

The communique said:

"German aircraft attempted to attack coastal objectives in Scotland this afternoon.

"The Royal Air Force have engaged the raiders and have inflicted heavy casualties."

But eye-witnesses told of Nazi planes over Edinburgh and the Firth of Forth, with R. A. F. fliers and anti-aircraft guns finally repelling them after spirited combat.

The attack came hard on the sinking of four more merchant vessels by submarines and a claim in Berlin (ignored in London) that a U-boat had attacked and damaged the giant British battle cruiser Repulse.

The sound of anti-aircraft fire was clearly audible in Edinburgh at 3 p. m. Some pieces of shrapnel fell in the streets, but no civilian casualties were reported.

The ministry of home security announced later tonight:

"Reports to date indicate no civilian casualties and no damage to property as a result of the attempted attack by enemy aircraft on Scotland."

Strangely enough, no air raid alarm was sounded in Edinburgh.

TELLS OF RAID

Kenneth Ross, a 20-year-old agricultural student, told a graphic story of the air battle.

"I was driving along the shore of the Firth of Forth," he said, "when I heard the sound of firing. I stopped my automobile at the door of a roadside inn. The proprietor excitedly ran out and urged me to take shelter. He too had heard the guns."

"I took his advice and went inside at first, but later came out again to see what was happening."

"It was then that I noticed two grey monoplane coming from the direction of the West Forth bridge."

"The planes swept across the bridge, dived and dropped two bombs and then passed on."

"Soon afterward, they dropped more bombs, then climbed and disappeared at high speed."

SAW BOMBS EXPLODE

"As the planes gained altitude, anti-aircraft guns opened fire, but apparently did not register any hits."

"Two minutes later the planes reappeared and dropped more bombs which I saw explode."

"Then there was an interval of fifteen minutes during which an oil tanker lying on the seaward side of the bridge moved to shelter. Then three more machines appeared from the direction of Edinburgh and swept across the Firth, disappearing in the distance."

(Editor's Note: At this point, the London office of International News Service advised that the description of the raid was being transmitted after "suitable expurgation" by the censor.)

"I heard one very heavy explosion."

Giant Warship Repulse Torpedoed, Say Nazis

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (INS)—Another major naval triumph, the torpedoing of the 32,000-ton battle cruiser Repulse, was claimed today by the German supreme command.

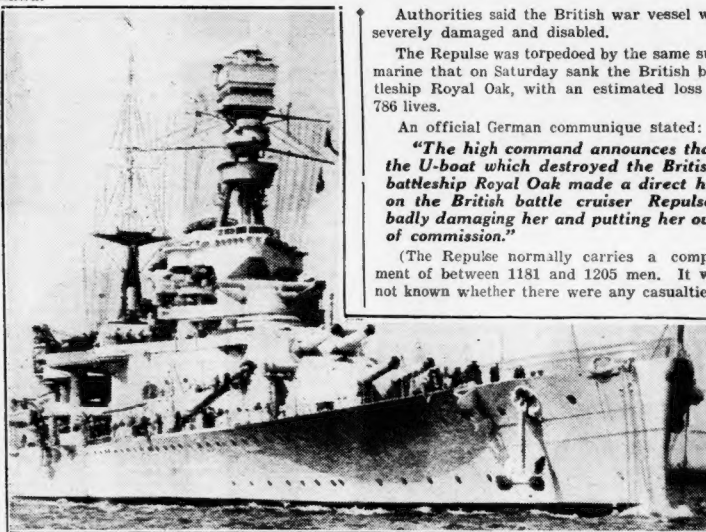

Authorities said the British war vessel was severely damaged and disabled.

The Repulse was torpedoed by the same submarine that on Saturday sank the British battleship Royal Oak, with an estimated loss of 786 lives.

An official German communique stated:

"The high command announces that the U-boat which destroyed the British battleship Royal Oak made a direct hit on the British battle cruiser Repulse, badly damaging her and putting her out of commission."

(The Repulse normally carries a complement of between 1181 and 1205 men. It was not known whether there were any casualties.)

BULLETIN

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Oct. 16 (INS)—At least four German airmen were killed today in raids on the Scottish coast, according to first casualty figures revealed tonight.

Of a crew of four in one German machine, one was drowned (in the Firth of Forth), two were found dead, apparently killed by bullets, and a fourth was rescued alive, suffering from injuries to his arm.

Another German raider came down in the Pentland Hills, and three of the crew were captured. A fourth flyer in this machine was believed dead.

War Diary 45th Day

On the Sea, In the Air—Germany apparently has decided to loose her mightiest effort for the present on Britain's famed navy, attacking by air and by sea. Today, shortly after Berlin officially claimed that the same U-boat that sunk the British battleship Royal Oak had badly damaged the huge battle cruiser Repulse, Nazi planes appeared in a spectacular raid over northern Scotland. The raiders were believed aiming at British naval bases on the Firth of Forth. At least three of the raiding planes were reported downed.

On the Land—For the first time in several weeks, the official French war communique indicated that the war was on in earnest on the Western Front. "Great activity in the enemy lines between the Saar and the Moselle" was reported. The French at the same time estimated that the Nazi forces in the vital north sector of the battle zone had been increased to 800,000 men. Massing of these troops was believed to be the prelude to a general offensive. A new "war of words for peace" was inaugurated farther to the south as Nazi loud-speakers were raced up and down the line by automobiles broadcasting Hitler's desire for peace.

Behind the Front—As the combatants prepared for their next round the Soviet Union continued building its fences. Istanbul reported that the new Soviet-Turkish treaty is expected to provide for Turkey's neutrality if Russia is drawn into war against England and France, meaning Turkey would not in such an event aid the western allies. Istanbul further said, however, that Turkey had refused to influence Rumania to give up its Dobruja area to Bulgaria and Bessarabia to Russia.

The first Red Army troops to garrison the Estonian port of Baldiski arrived there Sunday, and a few hours later the flagship of the Soviet Baltic fleet, with the commander-in-chief aboard, escorted by several smaller war vessels, sailed ceremoniously into the Estonian seaport.

Announcement of the spectacular attack on the huge British battle cruiser was made when the U-boat which sank the Royal Oak returned to its base without a scratch to show for its exploits.

(The Repulse, one of the British navy's most powerful war vessels, was launched during the World War, on Jan. 8, 1916. Its armament included six 15-inch guns, and it also carries four aircraft, launched by means of a catapult. Its top speed is believed to be about 28 knots.)

On Saturday, authentic Berlin circles claimed that an even larger vessel than the Repulse, the 42,000-

Other War News Pages 4, 5, 6, 16 and 17

ton battle cruiser Hood, known as the "super superdreadnaught" of the British navy, had been struck squarely by an aerial bomb and put out of action for from four to six months.

(In London the admiralty declined comment on the Nazi claim of a successful attack on the Repulse.)

The German admiralty, upon receiving the submarine's report,

American Scribe Hunts Mystery Sub Off N. E. Waters

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Staff Reporter for The Evening American

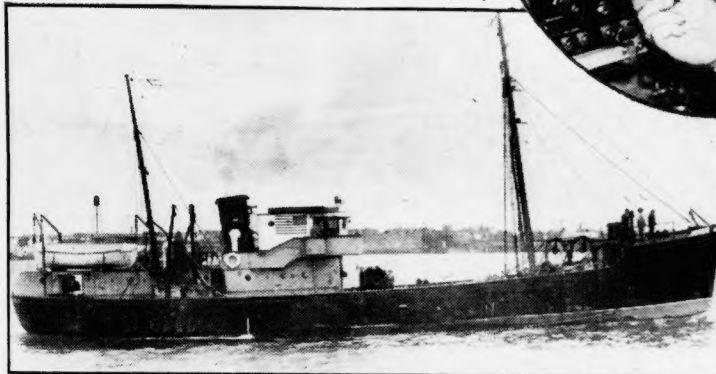

SOMEWHERE IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC, Oct. 15 (By Radio to the American)—Dark shapes, silent in the darkness, tossed and battered by stormy seas. A wind howling out of the north-west.

That's the North Atlantic shipping lane into which we ventured last night in our quest of the trail of a mystery submarine last reported off Portland Light.

Huge combers, driven by a 35-mile-an-hour gale swept the sturdy trawler upon which I am a guest. Great billows of water and spray dashed over us, eerie in the night, seemed to meet over our heads in a curtain, then showered away over the stern.

Floods of water swept over us, and I am frank to admit, I was not very well. I managed to stay on deck, however, and, at last, the storm inside of me subsided.

Today, with a bright sun streaming over the endless march of huge waves, I feel quite well, and, already, the tang of the sea has crept into my blood and heart. In oilskins—the waves are still breaking over us—I took my turn on the bridge with the captain, a sturdy Iclander, master of our ship.

EYES LIKE A CAT

Today I was even able to eat a little, and Photographer Edward Stephan, assigned with me to this unique mission, was actually chipper.

We feel that we have conquered the comments of those who overheard as we left Boston Fish Pier who said:

"They're on deck now, but that's the last anyone will see of them until the boat gets back."

Last night was thrilling, however, no matter how badly we felt. Capt. Jonsson, who has eyes like a cat, spotted the ships for us, dim shapes over the horizon, and directed our glasses towards them.

SEA-TO-SHORE PHONE

The foreign ones, all of them, were blacked out. We got a real thrill when an American ship steamed off into the night, tossing and bobbing, and quite a way off, but the cabins were ablaze.

We started the adventure Saturday after completing arrangements

Love Potion Described In Court

A time tested and effective "love potion"—good also as a hair tonic—was described in scientific terms in Suffolk superior court today.

The witness, Dr. Aaron Feldman of Boston, was called to the stand by counsel for Emory J. Payne, City Hospital engineer, who is suing two defendants for $500 each, charging alienation of affections of his nowdivorced wife, Mrs. Mary I. McElroy Payne.

Dr. Feldman was asked to explain to judge and jury exact nature and effect of a so-called love potion allegedly given to Mrs. Payne by the defendants in an effort to turn her from her husband to the "other man" named in the case.

WORKS QUICKLY

The witness said the "potion" is well-known to science and is compounded by dissolving a certain type of organic matter in a small quantity of alcohol.

If taken internally, he testified, the "potion" would have an "exciting effect" on the nervous system within ten or 15 minutes.

Asked how large a dose would be needed for the intended purpose, Dr. Feldman said from five to ten drops.

Cross-examining the witness,

Waitress Must Pay Back $375

With a tremulous smile of relief and gratitude breaking through her tears, 18-year-old Kathryn Petropoulos, Back Bay beauty and former cafe waitress, heard Judge Wilford D. Gray say today that she need not go to jail for alleged theft of $375 from a spree-celebrating New Hampshire escort.

Having deferred sentence for several days in young Mrs. Petropoulos' case, Judge Gray finally made the punishment fit the crime by putting the attractive defendant on probation or two years—on condition she find work and repay every cent of the stolen $375.

The money "disappeared" while Mrs. Petropoulos was walking in the Common and riding on a Public Garden swanboat with Ernest Perry, 30, a Lee, N. H., construction foreman.

BLONDE MAINE GIRL, YOUTH HELD FOR MURDER IN 48-CENT ROBBERY

In an unromantic square room that is Stoughton court, on the second floor of a commercial block, the romance of a blond New Bedford youth and a blonde Maine girl came today to a tragic climax.

Before 75-year-old Judge Gerald A. Hesley, white-haired and fatherly, Harrison C. Howes, Jr., 18, and Helen E. Hayes, 17, pleaded not guilty to the 48-cent murder of Simon Danilovich, Stoughton dump employe.

COURTROOM CROWDED

They pleaded innocent, likewise, to two counts of breaking and entering to commit larceny in Canton on Sept. 26.

A short time later they had been held without bail on the murder charge and on $2500 each on the larceny counts and were on their way to Dedham jail—there to join three other boys of teen age whom Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing must prosecute for allegedly taking human life.

With many boys and girls of school age included, the tiny courtroom was jammed for the arraignment, the stairs were lined and there were more than 2000 others outside in the street.

Helen Hayes, her frizzled blond hair sticking out from beneath a blue tam-o'-shanter, was brought to court from Dedham Jail in escort of a matron and State Police Lieuts. William H. Delay and Theodore Johnson.

Young Howes, whom Helen now is declared to say she doesn't love any more, came up from New Bedford, handcuffed, after a charge of abducting the girl from Ogunquit, Me., had been dismissed to clear the

'SURPRISE' PLANNED BY NAZIS

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff

PARIS, Oct. 16 (INS)—Preparations for some mysterious "surprise" by the German armies on the western front were disclosed by French circles today as war communique No. 85 revealed renewed activity between the Moselle and Saar rivers.

The artillery exchanges typical of western front warfare since hostilities began came to a sudden end. One usually reliable French news agency said that the big guns had been silenced while certain "secret" operations were being carried out.

MUCH ACTIVITY

The communique, which gave no hint of these activities, said:

"There was much activity in the enemy line between the Moselle and Saar rivers. There were patrols on both sides in the region west of Wissembourg."

"We will soon know the immediate intentions of the enemy," the news agency said in revealing "secret" preparations.

"The artillery fire has been reduced to practically nothing, doubtless because the German high command in the last 24 hours has had many things to keep secret."

"Our outposts have noted more or less important troop movements, indicating that the enemy now has intentions more precise and more organized than in the past."

ROAR OF MOTORS HEARD

"On roads 15 kilometers behind the enemy front lines intensive movements have been noted. Nearer the front, flashlights, apparently used by officers searching out routes and consulting maps have been noted."

"For the past 24 hours the roar of motors has been heard, indicating the arrival of detachments the size of which cannot be estimated."

"Rumors of all kinds are current, all of which deal with extraordinary activity all along the front. Is a serious attack in the making? One thing is certain—we are warned. Any 'surprise' will prove a fleeting triumph in the hands of the German command."

Administration Acts to Kill 90-Day Credits In Arms Bill

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (INS)—The administration acted today to strike the 90-day credit provision from its proposed neutrality bill.

In the first major concession granted in the neutrality fight now under way in the Senate, Chairman Key Pittman (D) of Nevada, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee introduced an amendment to eliminate the credit clause.

Pittman's action would make the bill cash-and-carry in the strictest meaning of the words.

Providing for repeal of the present arms embargo, the proposed administration legislation will now require cash payment for all commodities, including arms, and for delivery in the United States for transport on foreign ships. These terms apply to warring nations.

DECIDE TO YIELD

Chairman Pittman's action was not unexpected, and was carried out in response to numerous protests that the 90 days of credit provided under the bill as originally introduced would result in extending credit to the nations which already owe this country billions in war debts.

Throughout the early stages of the neutrality debate, Pittman and other supporters of the administration's bill contended that 90-day credit was simply a formality and amounted to cash.

Protests continued, however, and the Roosevelt leaders decided to yield rather than face a major fight on the credit issue.

Bridges Plans Battle For Arms Bill Preamble

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Senator Bridges (R. of New Hampshire) disclosed today he would ask the Senate to adopt a preamble to the pending neutrality legislation pledging the United States to remain at peace.

Explaining the proposed amendment, Bridges said in an interview it would not change legislation, but would "outline the objective of the legislation and put Congress and the President on record for peace."

The preamble he proposed was: "Whereas, it is the determination of the people that the United States remain at peace."

"It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to remain neutral in wars between other nations."

"Whereas, in accordance with this policy the risks of becoming involved in foreign wars can be diminished by restricting the exercise of certain neutral rights of our citizens."

FRAMINGHAM, Oct. 16—Robert W. Rembrandt, 29-year-old father of two children, died in the Framingham Union Hospital as a result of injuries he received when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a car operated, according to police, by Leo F. Walsh of Woodside st., Roxbury.

Rembrandt, who made his home on Cedar st., Wellesley Hills, was employed by the Charles River Country Club. The crash occurred yesterday on the Worcester turnpike in full view of hundreds of worshippers, as they were leaving St. Bridget's Church.

Old Cemetery Clue To 'Mystery' Bones

BIDDEFORD, Me., Oct. 16—Medical Examiner George R. Lowe today put an end to the "mystery" surrounding the human bones dug up from a sandpit Saturday by Wilfred Dube, farmer, when he announced that the sandpit once was a burial ground from which the markers, if there had been any, had disappeared. The bones, he said, had been buried for many years.

Urges War on 'Isms'

The "dark, atheistic isms" which overshadowed the world must be stamped out before they blot out free Americanism and Christianity, according to Representative John W. McCormack.

Addressing more than 5000 war veterans at their friends at the dedication of Arthur P. White sq. at Columbia rd., Geneva ave. and Brindley st., Dorchester, yesterday, McCormack declared:

"When we witness the attacks on religion and Christianity in European countries, we realize what it means to be an American. These rights which we enjoy of religious and other freedoms must be preserved."

NAZIS NIP COUP IN HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, Oct. 16 (AP)—Hungarian Nazis today reported police had arrested 140 members of the outlawed Hungarian "Death Legion" to head off a coup against the government.

Though there was no confirmation from official sources, Nazi leaders said the most arrests occurred Saturday with the seizure of large quantities of guns and ammunition.

Plans for the coup, Nazis said, included the assassination of 17 members of Parliament.

One leader of the Legion, a pro-Nazi faction which is at bitter odds with other branches of the Hungarian Nazis, was said to have been captured in a Budapest air raid shelter. Five other leaders were reported to have escaped into Austria.

Rifles, hand grenades and machine guns were said to be included in the war supplies seized by police.

Nazis declared the dissident "Death Legion" had plotted to kill several Nazi leaders, among them Kalman Hubay, successor to Ferenc Szalkai, the "Hungarian Hitler" who is serving a three-year prison sentence for "incitement against the constitution."

Polish Troops Still Fighting

PARIS, Oct. 16 (INS)—Troops of the regular Polish army are resisting the German and Russian armed forces occupying Polish territory, the Polish embassy in Paris stated today.

The embassy issued a communique "explaining" the German announcements that the Reichswehr is constantly fighting armed bands in Poland.

"On this subject," said the communique, "it is desirable to give precise evidence showing it (the Reichswehr) is not acting against armed bands but against troops of the regular army who continue resistance against the Germans and Russians."

"From recent information in the region of Suwalki, Carpathian detachments are resisting the Germans, while regular formations are resisting the Bolsheviks in the Polesia and Bialowieza districts."

DON'T SCRATCH, SOOTHE THE IRRITATION

Quick relief from the maddening itch of eczema, psoriasis, poison ivy, and irritation about the rectum or personal parts is obtained by applying Resinol Ointment. Leave it on over night. It lessens the desire to scratch, and eases the irritation.

The soothing effect of Resinol takes the sting from the irritated places and makes you more comfortable. The skin heals sooner, too, with the help of Resinol as its oily base holds the medication in active contact with the tortured parts.

For gentle cleansing of irritated skin, Resinol Soap is excellent because it has no excess of free alkali and is so refreshing. Many nurses suggest and use Resinol Ointment and Soap—why don't you try them? Buy at any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 85, Baltimore, Md.

Submarine Shells French Lifeboats

LONDON, Oct. 16 (INS)—The U-boat which sank the French passenger-cargo liner Bretagne in the Atlantic ocean opened fire without prior warning, survivors said today after they were brought to London from Plymouth, where they were disembarked by British warships which rescued them.

Men, women and children were thrown into panic as the submarine's guns hurled ten shells at the ship while the passengers tried to get into lifeboats or climb down ropes into the sea.

Fourteen persons were believed to have been killed aboard the Bretagne others were wounded, including women and children, the survivors said. The first mate was killed and the radio officer was wounded as he sat at his key sending out an SOS. A 17-year-old boy was decapitated by a shell.

A stirring tale was told by one survivor, Adjt. Laurent Barcourt of the French Colonial Army, who was en route to France with his wife and three children from the West Indies.

"My wife and our three boys were with me," he said. "She came to the deck. I sent her to a lifeboat with one of the children. I followed with another child in my arms."

"As the lifeboat was lowered, I became so excited that I threw the child into it. He landed unhurt. Our third child, Josef, seven, remained with me on board. I put him on my shoulders and started climbing down a rope slung from the rail to the water."

"We were part way down when the boy slipped off my shoulders and fell into the sea. I had to dive after him. I supported him in the water for an hour and a half before we finally reached a lifeboat and were picked up. I didn't see my wife and other children until we were landed."

Bridal Pair Jailed in Party Row

The new city jail, with its elaborate co-educational features by which the ladies and gentlemen confined therein are prevented from so much as knowing of each others' presence, made its debut as a honeymoon hotel today.

And after a wedding night as guests of the city, Rocco Jerio, 39, and his bride, also 39, both of Chandler st., South End, were held in $2500 bail each in Roxbury District Court—Jerio on charges of assault and battery and drunkenness, and his wife on drunkenness charges.

Highlight of a slightly stormy court session came when one of the wedding guests, a woman who gave her name as Marie Goldstein, another Chandler st. resident, loosed a tirade in court and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles promptly sentenced her for contempt of court, as well as held on a charge of idle and disorderly conduct. All three pleaded not guilty.

It all started, Jerio told police, with the Jerio wedding in Roxbury, following which the principals and about 75 guests repaired to Walnut Park, Roxbury, to celebrate. The next clear happening, the officers said, was when a riot squad arrived.

Casualty of the fray was Edward Hawley, a member of the orchestra, who was taken to City Hospital with a cut in the eye. It was reported that somebody had "winked" at the bride.

Judge Miles continued the case

150 Salem High Strikers Back

SALEM, Oct. 16.—Threats of being charged with truancy brought 150 striking high school students back to their classes here today.

For over a week the boys and girls had refused to attend school as a protest against "too severe discipline."

On their return several offered personal apologies to Principal James J. Murray whose office was burned in a student demonstration last Tuesday.

Supt. George A. Bemis said punishment for the strikers had not yet been determined upon.

Morison Pays Honor To Da Gama in Lisbon

LISBON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Samuel Eliot Morison, Harvard professor who is retracing the voyage of Christopher Columbus, paid homage today to a Portuguese navigator and poet.

In a ceremony attended by the Geographic Society directors and Spanish officials, Prof. Morison laid wreaths at the tombs of Vasco da Gama, a contemporary of Columbus who was the first European to reach India by sea route around Africa, and Luiz Vaz de Camoes, a 16th century poet, who sailed to India.

9 Suing Wives Tell Of Money Troubles

Nine marriages whose principals tripped over dollar signs were paraded today by the wives-in-question before Judge John V. Phelan in Salem probate court, and he took the divorce actions of all nine wives under advisement.

For seven and a half years the marriage of Mrs. Anna P. Upton of Marblehead was happy, she testified, but then her husband, Atty. Edward Upton of Lynn, began drinking and night-clubbing while bills piled up and money matters worried her.

Later he took to disappearing for a few days at a time, the wife asserted, and would not say where he had been.

In 1937, he told her he was going to New York to see a woman friend off on a boat for Europe, according to Mrs. Upton. When he returned he was irritable, she testified.

GO TO MOVIES

But it was the last straw, although she did it to humor him, when despite her arthritis he insisted that she accompany him to the movies every afternoon and every evening for a month.

Mrs. Alice R. Lynch of Danvers said it was only a week after their marriage when James F. Lynch, now of Aborn st., Peabody, punched her—because she did not get his breakfast quickly enough.

Later, she said, slapping and punching her became a habit, particularly when she spoke to him about his drinking and gambling and money matters. So they separated in May, 1938.

MOTHER ROSE MONEY

For two and a half years, Mrs. Elmer M. Brewer of Chapman ter., Beverly, were her principal troubles—both in connection with her husband, George W. Brewer of Beverly.

On one occasion, according to the wife, he came home intoxicated and threatened her with a razor, but finally he fell on the floor with the razor and she sat up all night in a chair.

Once later, she said, he took all the chairs and threw them out the windows, declaring he was going to burn them, and when she tried to call police he ripped out the phone wires and all.

On another occasion he took a big butcher knife, she said, and with it impaled on the wall a sign which carried the word "Beware" and crossed bones beneath.

KILLING FROST ON CAPE COD

The season's first "killing frost" chilled Cape Cod today as the area registered New England's lowest temperatures in the early hours of the morning.

The mercury at East Wareham and Norton was down to 15 early today, while at Marston's Mills, in the cranberry district, it plummeted to 12, for what the weather bureau termed a "killing frost." Carver reported 17, the same temperature as at Concord, N. H., another chilly spot on the weather map.

In the low-lying areas around Boston, temperatures were in the lower twenties, with Concord and Lexington reporting 22. Fair and warmer, turning chilly again tomorrow, was the official prediction.

Actress Friend Of Hitler Held

PARIS, Oct. 16 (INS)—The semi-official French newspaper, El Temps reported from Zurich today that Leni Aiefenstahl, German actress and film producer and long a close friend of Adolf Hitler, has been arrested on currency law violation charges.

The report said that Miss Riefenstahl was accused of buying jewels abroad and obtaining currency which was not registered with the Reichsbank.

Jailed for Cruelty To Boy War Refugee

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—William Halewood, 25, a Preston bookseller, was sentenced today to two months hard labor for mistreating a five-year-old boy billeted in his home by England's wartime evacuation.

Witnesses testified the boy had been locked in a dark room for hours, told ghosts were coming after him and whipped so that he had a score of bruises.

COUGHLIN SAYS REDS WANT WAR

England and France were urged to sit down and discuss peace with Adolf Hitler by Rev. Charles E. Coughlin in his regular weekly broadcast from the Shrine of the Little Flower, Royal Oak, Mich.

The famed radio priest declared that Germany and Russia are "well prepared to fight the capitalistic nations," which, he asserted, are "weak internally and socially."

Hitler and Stalin, according to Coughlin, wish to continue the war because they believe a prolonged war "will generate a tremendous political upheaval" that will overthrow capitalistic systems.

"I am satisfied that the present war, if peace is not negotiated, promises to be a death struggle . . ." he continued. "It will be a death struggle in which we who dwell in capitalistic countries will surely lose."

Great Britain and France, he said, "can and must find a way with honor to sit at a conference table before this war breaks forth in all its fury."

Urging retention of the embargo on the shipment of arms to belligerents, Coughlin said that "any contribution that we can make to persuade Britain and France to avoid hostilities for the moment and readjust their home affairs will be a contribution towards the ultimate downfall of Communism. It is evident that sooner or later the world must unite against Communism in a decisive battle."

"To my mind," he added, "the present time is inopportune, precisely because the anti-Communist powers are weak internally and socially. They are not weak in manpower from a mathematical viewpoint; they are not weak in armaments or munitions; but they are weak patriotically, socially, economically and morally."

Alumni Organized For Catholic Action

The Alumni Council of Catholic Action, composed of young college trained men and women interested in parish activities, was formed today under the direction and supervision of Cardinal O'Connell. The Rev. Francis J. Coyne, S. J., of Boston College, was appointed spiritual director.

Other officers include Miss Claire Busby of Watertown, president; Paul Schultz of Dorchester, vice-president; Miss Catherine McCarthy of Medway, secretary; Leo Creedon of Brockton, treasurer, and John McNulty, membership chairman.

1000 Pay Tribute To Msgr. Labossiere

SALEM, Oct. 16—More than 1000 clergymen and laymen paid tribute in the State Armory last night to Msgr. John B. Labossiere, 75, pastor of St. Joseph's Church on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his ordination.

Msgr. Labossiere was eulogized by Msgr. Theopolis Hudon of St. Mary's College, Montreal, a classmate who was postulator at Rome for the beatification and canonization of the eight Canadian martyrs.

Msgr. Labossiere was ordained by the late Archbishop Williams of Boston.

New Testament Read in 19 Hours

Reading along at a normal pace, in relays, it took the Rev. Stephen J. Callender, of West Lynn, his wife and 48 members of the church 19 hours to read the New Testament. The reading began in Trinity Methodist Church, West Lynn at 2 a. m. yesterday and ended at 10 p. m. last night. It was interspersed with religious music and the singing of hymns.

The idea, Rev. Callender said, was to prove that it doesn't take a lifetime to read the New Testament.

Admits Cutting Wife To Spoil Her Beauty

In a husky voice hardly above a whisper, a Cambridge mailman today pleaded guilty to charges of slashing his wife's face with a razor—because, he had told police, "her beauty was wrecking our home."

He is James Hayden, 35, arrested after his wife had run screaming, and with blood streaming down her face, from the Inman st., Cambridge, apartment where their three children cowered in terror.

Mrs. Hayden, in seclusion, was convalescing from her wounds as her husband appeared in East Cambridge district court, but doctors said she would be scarred for life.

The mailman to'd police the slashing came after he had found a "trusted neighbor"—himself the father of three children—in the apartment with his wife.

"I cut her face because she was vain and her beauty was getting her into trouble and wrecking our home," Hayden told officers who arrested him at his mother's home on Essex st.

The couple had lived there until two weeks ago when they took the Inman st. apartment.

The mail carrier said on Friday night he had tramped the streets of Cambridge looking in vain for his wife, only to return home on Saturday and find a neighbor "whom I had trusted" with her.

A squabble followed, reaching its climax after a policeman had escorted the neighbor from the house.

"I guess I lost my head then," the mail carrier said. "I grabbed a razor and cut her face because she was too beautiful."

He was held in $4000 bail for the grand jury on the slashing charges, and sent to the house of correction to serve a suspended two months sentence for drunkenness meted out to him last Aug. 23.

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
— STATE HOUSE BOSTON

LEVERETT SALTONSTALL
GOVERNOR

Statement

of His Excellency

Governor Leverett Saltonstall

The Metropolitan Boston automobile Dealers' Annual Show Week will give many people an opportunity to buy new and used cars in time for trips to enjoy the fall scenery, which is beautiful in this state. Buyers can also face the winter with the assurance that their cars will give them safe, dependable service, and sales at this time will help to continue the upward trend of business and employment which now prevails.

I am glad to endorse the Annual Show Week of Boston Automobile Dealers, October 14-21.

Leverett Saltonstall

FACSIMILE of the proclamation by Governor Saltonstall endorsing auto show week of Boston automobile dealers is shown above. The show week committee has designated today as Governor's Day at the show.

'GOVERNOR'S DAY' AT AUTO SHOW HERE

Governor Saltonstall inspected Automobile Row this forenoon as part of the program of "Governor's Day" at the 23th annual Automobile Show Week which opened Saturday and will continue through this week.

Automobile dealers throughout the city continued to hold "open house."

Tomorrow will be "Mayor's Day" with other specially designated "days" scheduled to feature the showing of the 1940 models during the week.

This year "Automobile Week" will take the place of the traditional auto "show" which in other years has been held in Mechanics Building.

There will be no centralized exhibit under one roof as formerly, but the new models will be on display at individual dealers' showrooms, in the same manner that open house exhibits are held each year on Washington's Birthday.

During the week there will be parades of new and ancient cars through the city streets. Wednesday will be observed as Pioneer's Day and prominent automobile men whose careers started in the early days of the industry will ride in a Pioneer's Luncheon in a procession of bicycles, horse-drawn vehicles and modern cars.

It is estimated that 300 different models of 1940 cars will be on view at the various Metropolitan Boston automobile dealers' showrooms during the week, including special displays of used cars.

Opening of the show on Saturday was attended by a lively rush of sales of both new and used cars, and dealers were enthusiastic over prospects for a successful week.

Boy Reports Find Of $55, $20 Check

It was lucky for someone who lost a check for $20 and $35 in bills that Francis Feeney, nine, of Greighton st., Cambridge, found them while walking on Massachusetts ave. near Walden at. The boy at once brought them into Station 1 and turned them over to Sgt. George Mahoney who set about looking for the owner. The check bore the signature of Bernard Rice

Mercy Killer Blames 'Example'

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP) Lodging of a homicide charge against a 20-year-old unemployed soda clerk accused of drowning his five-year-old stepson in a bathtub raised the "mercy death" issue here today for the third time within a year.

Patrolman Walter Cleaver and the stepfather, Lawrence Rouseau, seized and disheveled, stepped up to him in Union sq. yesterday and told him:

"I just killed my stepson, Jimmy, because he was groaning, and I was afraid he was going to die like his mother."

"I tied his hands and feet with neckties and held his head under the water in the tub until he stopped squirming. I left him there and came out for a walk."

Asst. Dist. Atty. Jacob Rosenblum said Rouseau's wife is an inmate of a New York county mental institution. He said Rouseau told him he had been influenced in his deed by reading accounts last week of the choking of crippled 15-month-old Repouille 13, by his father, Louis Repouille.

Repouille, 40, an elevator man, was released yesterday in $5000 bail. Police, who charged him with homicide, said Repouille described the killing of his blind, helpless, mentally retarded son last Thursday as an "act of mercy."

A similar defense was offered in court by Louis Greenfield, millionaire Bronx milliner who earlier formed his illegitimate son, Jerry, 17, last January. A jury acquitted him of manslaughter.

Rouseau, fourth eldest in a family of 19 children, lives in an East Side tenement flat with his mother, six brothers and six sisters and three young children. Two of the sisters are chronic girls.

Assistant Prosecutor Rosenblum said Rouseau related his work up to the father after hearing the boy was wanted in his home, and told him:

"We're going to play cops and robbers and then give you a bath."

The child made no outcry, Rosenblum said the stepfather denied Jimmy had been strangled to keep him silent.

Accidents Kill 60,840 in U. S.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 16 (AP)—The National Safety Council reported today that 60,840 persons were killed in accidents in the United States during the first eight months of 1939.

This report was made at the opening of the 26th annual National Safety Congress, attended by 10,000 safety experts.

Automobile accidents took 18,980 lives during the period.

Finn-Soviet Strain Grows; Parley Hazy

HELSINKI, Oct. 16 (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today a Finnish diplomatic mission would return to Moscow for further talks with Soviet Russian officials, but added, "I don't know when."

The spokesman made his prediction shortly after Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, head of the mission, arrived here bearing secret proposals which Finns feared might menace their neutrality—or even their independence.

Paasikivi, greeted expectantly by a city tense with repressed excitement, went into conference with Foreign Minister Edpus Eriko less than an hour after his arrival.

It was expected the government would issue a communique commenting upon his report this evening.

(Editor's Note: An International

News bulletin from Helsinki today said the Finnish government had ordered all preparations for immediate and complete evacuation of Helsinki if necessary, indicating that the danger of conflict has not been averted.)

Paasikivi stepped from his train to be greeted by government officials while a crowd of several thousand stood silent in the background.

The reception contrasted sharply with his departure for Moscow last week, when the station resounded to the national anthem and the patriotic hymn, "Our Land Shall Never Bend Before a Foreign Tyrant."

The silence remained unbroken as Paasikivi walked to a waiting automobile with his wife and Prime Minister Aimo Kaarlo Cajander.

The envoys face relaxed in a faint smile as he stepped into the car to be driven to a hotel before proceeding to the foreign office.

There was no official indication of the nature of the proposals which Paasikivi brought, but the lack of street demonstrations indicated Finns regarded the situation as the most serious crisis the republic had faced in the 21 years of its existence.

(Moscow sources said the mission was expected to return in five days after reporting on the progress of the talks.)

Finland, meanwhile, continued to hasten preparations to meet any eventuality and back up her expressed determination to resist any pressure threatening her independence.

All strategic bridges and buildings were guarded heavily, and uniformed men appeared in streets of principal cities in increasing numbers.

Reserves were being mustered in Helsinki and the surrounding district. Many restaurants were devoting half of their facilities to feeding the troops.

Turkey Hastily Arms To Meet Russian Threat

ISTANBUL, Oct. 16 (AP)—Turkey made "feverish" military preparations today on the strength of reports that Soviet Russia was massing troops in the Caucasus on the borders of Turkey and Iran (Persia).

It was learned on good authority that Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, now engaged in diplomatic discussions in Moscow, had refused three major Russian demands—recognition of the partition of Poland, formation of a neutral Balkan block under the aegis of Russia and Germany, and territorial expansion of Russia and Bulgaria at the expense of Rumania.

Turkey, Finland Slow Down Soviet 'Expansion'

MOSCOW, Oct. 16 (AP)—Soviet Russia's negotiations for strengthening her hand in eastern Europe struck a slower pace today, with foreign circles anticipating merely compromise agreements with Finland and Turkey and speculating on possible future Russian moves in the Balkans.

Turkey's foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, returned to the Kremlin at 4 p. m. for a conference with Joseph Stalin and Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. The Finnish envoy, Dr. Juho Kusti Paasikivi, returned to Helsinki last night by special train. He was expected back here within five days.

Unofficial reports said Finland, refusing to be drawn into the Russian orbit as have Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, would concede certain Baltic islands for Russian naval bases, but would balk at a military alliance or concessions on the strategic Asand Islands.

While a Hungarian diplomatic delegation came to Moscow for an undisclosed purpose, a Turkish mission was believed preparing to depart shortly, possibly after signing some cautious agreement respecting Russian safeguards on the passage of warships through the Dardanelles into the Black sea.

BULLETINS

TALLINN, Estonia, Oct. 16 (INS)—Eleven Soviet Russia naval ships were anchored in Tallinn harbor for a goodwill visit today following signature of an agreement for evacuation of some 15,000 Germans from this country. The visiting naval fleet consisted of the 15,526-ton flagship Okin, Briskaya of the Soviet Baltic fleet and 10 smaller warships.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 16 (AP)—Reports received here from Oslo said Norway had ordered troops to go today to her Finnish border. At that point, Norway is close to Soviet Russia, whose demand for concessions from Finland is to be the subject of a conference of Scandinavian kings starting here Wednesday.

CONFESS 18 'FAGIN' BREAKS

Two Cambridge youths who allegedly train two young boys in a burglary technique combining human fly and mountain climbing practices today confessed, according to police, to engineering at least 18 house breaks in the Harvard square section.

Field with them were two youngsters 12 and 14 years of age, who were said to have been the actual housebreakers. They were charged with juvenile delinquency.

Booked on robbery and breaking and entering charges were George Veloza, 18, of Magnolia ave., Cambridge, and Joseph Snyder, 21, of Beacon st., Somerville. Police said they had recovered several hundred dollars worth of watches, rings, and jewelry in their homes.

Their burglary procedure, police quoted them as admitting, was, after locating an apartment whose occupants were absent, to lower one of the smaller boys by rope from the roof to an open window.

After effecting entry through the window, the boy then let in the others, and they rifled the apartment, police said.

Spellman Wins Praise of Poles

Members of Polish societies who returned from New York today following special religious services in St. Patrick's Cathedral and a trip to the World's Fair were enthusiastic in their praise of Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York for his prediction that "Poland will never die."

Speaking to the members of the Polish societies from New England in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Archbishop Spellman said:

"As a boy who grew up with Polish people, attended seminars with Polish people, as one who has read Polish history and visited Poland, I offer you my sympathy and encouragement. "And as Pope Pius XII said, I say to you: 'Poland will never die.' As Catholicism will never die, Poland will never die."

Finns Rescue 8 From Sunken Ship

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Finnish steamer Emmi arrived at the nearby port of Muiden today with eight sailors from the Norwegian ship Gressholm, who said their vessel was sunk by a mine Friday while enroute from Stavanger to Antwerp. Three crew men were missing.

GIRD FOR HOT PRIMARIES IN 7 CITIES TOMORROW

Voters in seven cities will go to the polls tomorrow to choose mayoralty and other candidates for the November election. Primary contests will be held in Cambridge, Waltham, Somerville, Everett, Lynn, Pittsfield and Gardner.

Primary voting hours will be: Cambridge, 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Waltham, 11 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Somerville, noon to 9 p. m.; Everett, 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Lynn 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.; Gardner, 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Pittsfield, 6:30 a. m. to 6 p. m.

One of the liveliest of the primaries is expected in Cambridge, where two mayoralty nominees, four for the board of assessors, six for the school committee, eight for councilor-at-large and two in each of the 11 ward councilor contests are to be chosen.

Three veteran politicians, Mayor John W. Lyons, Congressman Richard M. Russell and former Mayor John D. Lynch are among eight candidates for mayor.

J. Fred Manning, Lynn mayor for 10 years, will be opposed for re-nomination by five candidates. They include Sen. Albert Cole, Rep. George O'Shea, George Parker, William E. Sexton and Paul E. Colmer.

One of the most hotly contested battles is for the City Council in Ward 4, where Mrs. Alice B. Harrington, only woman member of the council, is opposed by Charles C. Hoffman, veteran Boston newspaperman and popular umpire and sports announcer, who last year, his first in politics, was defeated by only 51 votes.

A total of 145 candidates will seek nominations in the Somerville primaries, with four candidates for the office of mayor.

The four, from whom two will be chosen, are State Sen. Eugene J. Groux, Mayor John M. Lynch, Alderman John Butler and former Mayor Leslie L. Knox. There are 45 candidates for alderman-at-large, with eight to be chosen.

One of the dulltest elections in years is expected in Waltham, where there are but 43 candidates for mayor, city council and school committee.

John J. Foster is opposing Mayor Arthur H. Hansen for re-election, but since two candidates are to be chosen in the primaries, both automatically are winners.

Mayor Frank E. Lewis has four opponents in the Everett primary. They are State Rep. Albert E. Morris, Dr. Lester D. Chisholm, Frederick S. Cooke and Alderman George V. Brickley. In the scramble for city government positions, there are 35 candidates for alderman, 73 for city council and 10 for the school committee.

With only two candidates and two to be chosen, there is no mayoralty contest in Pittsfield. Automatically nominated are Mayor James Fallon and former Rep. Ralph E. Otis. In the council-at-large race, eight of nine candidates are to be chosen.

Mayor Fred E. Perry will be opposed by four candidates in his fight for re-election at Gardner. They are Nelson Beaudette, Dr. John C. Hughes, Dr. Charles W. Sauter and Victor Wironen. There are 15 candidates for six councilor-at-large positions, while there is a three-corner battle for two school committee posts.

HITLER'S AIM: 'SMASH THE BRITISH FLEET'

Raiders Disclose New Nazi War Plan

By J. C. OESTREICHER

International News Service Foreign Editor

With a clarity apparent even to the simplest layman, the immediate aim and objective of the German high command emerged today—a determination to wipe out the British navy the mightiest fleet that ever sailed the seas.

And not even the deepest dyed-in-the-wool Anglophile can deny that, up to the present at least, the Germans have achieved a measure of success never dreamed possible before the war broke out.

Certain Nazi claims may be discounted as exaggeration or propaganda, as the British today deal with German claims that the battle cruiser Repulse had been struck and disabled by a U-boat torpedo.

WAR AGAINST FLEET

But no one can deny that the aircraft carrier Courageous and the battleship Royal Oak have gone to the bottom, and today there were many hundreds of persons living in northern Scotland able to attest to the manner in which Nazi Germany is carrying the war against the British fleet to the chief strongholds of the navy.

For the first time since hostilities started seven weeks ago, real war was carried to the rugged coastline of the British Isles today in the form of Nazi bombing planes which attempted a daylight attack upon what was announced as "certain coastal objectives."

The chances are a thousand to one that the Nazi war birds were hunting out British warship concentrations—possibly in the Orkney Islands at Scapa Flow, in Pentland Firth or perhaps farther south in the Invergorrd region, where dozens of ships are usually quarantined in the still waters of Cromarty Firth.

Whatever the objectives may have been, and no matter what degree of success or failure resulted, the surprise attack was entirely in line with authoritative information dispensed in Berlin today as regards Adolf Hitler's immediate war objectives.

There were enthusiastic military commentators in the German capital who already began to predict today when British naval supremacy in the North Sea will have come to an end. These circles professed no doubt that the Repulse had been put out of action for perhaps a year and then general comment was:

"The war is only six weeks old and already the British have only fourteen big ships left."

And then they pointed their heads knowingly and pointed toward Moscow, predicting that within a little while the Soviets will add a hundred submarines to the U-boat fleet which has already proved such a powerful, if not actually dominant, factor in the war to date.

The attack upon northern Scotland today indicated that the Germans are out not only to knock off the British fleet but to destroy repair and supply bases as well.

The Berlin enthusiasts spoke of the day when the British blockade would be shattered entirely, and the German blockade of Britain enabled to take full effect.

There can be no question that the combined threat of German U-boats and high-powered bombing planes has proved to be a very considerable one.

WHAT OF THE TROOPS?

Before the war broke out, even the most sanguine Nazi experts dared not boast that a 21,000-ton aircraft carrier and a 29,000-ton battleship would be sent to the bottom before the war was seven weeks old, but that much at least is hard fact.

The German boasts at present may be overoptimistic. Yet the spectacle of a British fleet destruction involves one angle of predominant importance.

Should the Nazis succeed in this aim something far more important than mere blockade-breaking would be in the cards. Without a British fleet to protect them, how could come the

Officials Say 'Practice' to Allay Fears

EDINBURGH, Oct. 16 (INS)

—Officials attempted for a while today to dismiss the German air raid on the Firth of Forth as a "practice manoeuvre."

They made an announcement to this effect with the apparent idea of reassuring the public.

Reality of the raid was later established, however, several eye-witnesses declaring they clearly saw German markings on one machine flying lower than the rest.

mightily arms from Canada, India and Australia which Britain needs to prosecute with success her war against Hitlerism?

Repel Raiders Over Scotland

sion coming from the direction of Rosyth followed by several smaller explosions.

Afterward, a single machine appeared and swept down at a low altitude. Shore batteries opened fire and the plane rose and disappeared.

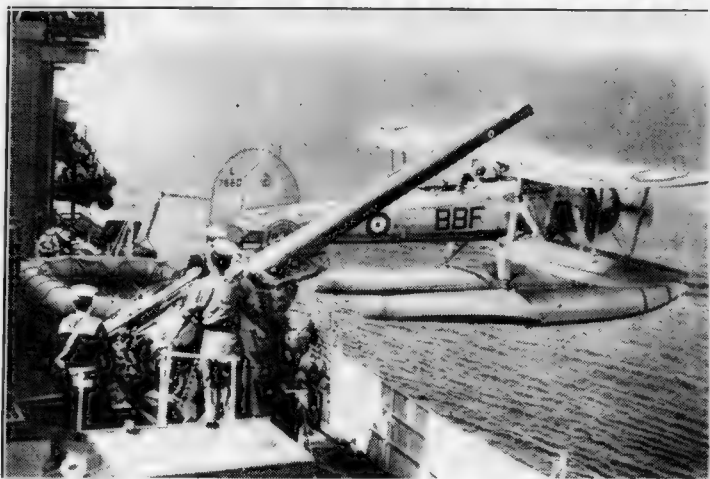

"Later I saw a plane coming down, apparently out of control, and disappear over a ridge of hills. Passengers landing from a ferryboat when the attack commenced stood and watched the puffs of white smoke from anti-aircraft guns until warned to go to safety."

IMPORTANT BASE

Rosyth is an important naval base in Fife-shire, Scotland. Original plans for a large base were modified in 1908, but approximately 2,500 acres of inland and coastal territory were purchased and the town finally established as a "secondary base" to Scapa Flow, particularly for battle cruisers. In 1925, Rosyth was reduced to the basis of a "care and maintenance" dockyard.

From Ross's account, it appeared that Rosyth or the Forth bridge, one of the largest in the world, were the objects of the Nazi attack.

The original official announcement, however, said that the raiders were seeking "coastal objectives" in the north, indicating they may have been heading for Scapa Flow in the Orkney Islands or Pentland Firth, both important British fleet headquarters.

PLANE LEAVES H. M. S. REPULSE . . . REPORTED TORPEDOED

International News Photograph Service

Berliners Hold Grip Of Britannia Broken

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (AP)—While awaiting the commander's detailed report, authorized sources said they believed the submarine, which is reported to have hit the British battle cruiser Repulse must have torpedoed the warship about the same time or certainly in connection with the same action which sank the battleship Royal Oak.

Athenia Owners Donate $21,513

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy announced today that the owners of the sunken British passenger ship Athenia had contributed the equivalent of $21,513 toward the cost of returning home American survivors.

"The check which I have just received is a splendid gesture taken without regard to any immunity from legal responsibility which the company (Donaldson Atlantic Line) might have enjoyed under the special circumstances of the Athenia sinking," the ambassador's statement said.

Captured Nazis Flabbergasted It's Real War

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The British War Office said today some German troops captured in France did not know a war was on until weeks after it started.

A propaganda statement asserted the Germans were "absolutely flabbergasted when they found out by being shot at and surrounded that there was a real war."

The report on the Repulse, coming on the heels of the sinking of the Royal Oak, brought a new wave of enthusiasm over Berlin, particularly in official quarters.

Strangers were accosting each other on the streets with the remark, "Have you heard?" This was usually followed with, "That'll surely get on the Britishers' nerves. Britannia no longer rules the waves."

Some officials said a simple Iron Cross would not be enough to honor the submarine commander and predicted he would get something better.

The communique reporting a submarine attack on the Repulse briefly said:

"As reported by the supreme army command the same U-boat which sank the British battleship Royal Oak severely damaged the battleship Repulse through a torpedo hit and put it out of commission."

German news broadcasts began with a reading of the communique and then were interrupted with a recording of the German blue-jackets' wartime song of "When We Sail Towards England."

Yangtze Ship With 400 Chinese Goes Down

SHANGHAI, Oct. 16 (AP)—The 180-ton Yangtze river vessel Hsin Taiki Maru, carrying 400 to 500 Chinese, capsized 12 miles from Woosung today with probable heavy loss of life.

NAZIS SAY BOMBER BAGGED

BERLIN, Oct. 16 (INS) A giant British bombing plane one of the 12-ton Armstrong Whitworth "Whitley" No. 2 craft—was shot down by German anti-aircraft fire southwest of Grosserau in the Mainz-Frankfurt-on-Main air district today, the German high command announced.

One member of the bomber's crew was killed and the three others taken prisoner.

Earlier, a French Potez type 63 reconnoitering plane was shot down in the same region near Gernersheim. One of the fliers was killed and two wounded.

On of the heaviest—if not the heaviest—of British bombing planes is the Armstrong Whitworth "Whitley."

A twin-engined heavy bomber, the craft weighs almost 23,000 pounds fully loaded.

Her 14-cylinder radial air-cooled "Tiger" engines generate 845 horsepower. Her span is 84 feet, her length 69 feet and her wing area 1137 square feet.

At sea level, the "Whitley" bombers have a speed of 185 miles an hour. Their maximum speed is 215 miles an hour and the normal cruising speed 177 miles an hour.

The planes are heavily armed and equipped with fast-firing guns of varying caliber.

The French Potez 63 is a fast scout, equipped with two 670-horsepower motors and capable of 285 miles an hour.

Havoc in Hangchow As Chinese Storm City

CHUNGKING, Oct. 16 (AP)—Chinese army sources reported today Chinese forces had stormed into the walled city of Hangchow, only 50 miles southwest of Shanghai; killed numerous Japanese soldiers; destroyed the power plant, and set fire to an ammunition dump and the headquarters of the Japanese puppet regime.

Storming the city Sunday after an all-night attack, the Chinese were reported to have cut off communication with Shanghai by tearing up railroad tracks east and west of Hangchow and dynamiting three railroad bridges, establishing Chinese control of the surrounding countryside.

Liner Exeter, Held Up Twice, Arrives Here

Bringing in 156 passengers, some of them war refugees, the American Export liner Exeter arrived today at the Army Base, South Boston, from Syrian and Mediterranean ports and Marseilles, France.

"SEPARATED"—Prince Leon Dadiani of Russian Georgia, husband of the former Edna Dunham of Malden, told newsmen upon arriving here aboard the S. S. Exeter, that he "got separated" from his wife on the Riviera.

Except for being halted twice off Gibraltar by British gunboats, for an inspection of her papers, and an 18 hour delay in Marseilles while the French officials satisfied themselves that Egyptian cotton in her cargo was not going to Germany, the trip was uneventful.

One passenger aboard was Prince Leon Dadiani of Russian Georgia, third and present husband of the former Edna Dunham of Malden, ex-model and necktie saleslady and once the wife of Playboy Phil Plant.

"GOT SEPARATED"

Prince Dadiani, who lives now in New York with Edna, lent an air of mystery to the marital status when he said, through an interpreter, that he and his wife "got separated" on the Riviera and she came back to America ahead of him.

Prince Dadiani was sure, he said, however, that the alliance between Hitler and Stalin will result in killing them both politically, together with their parties.

He does not care for Communists anyway, he said, because the Communists killed his 21-year-old brother when the monarchy in Georgia was overthrown.

The prince had with him a cat which he said he had carried with him both eastbound and westbound.

CHINESE AUTHOR ABOARD

Also aboard the liner, which goes from here to New York, was a Chinese girl journalist and author, who will visit Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at the White House during a six months' stay in America.

She is Helena Gin Chin Kuo (Mirror of Autumn), who writes for the China Times in Shanghai and is China correspondent for the London Daily Mail, although she has been in France for several months.

The author, who said she has been invited to the White House by the President's wife, declared that China will finally win out in what now has practically become the forgotten war with Japan.

Arriving also on the liner was Miss Klara Halpern, who has been living for four years in Palestine, but whose home is in New York.

She said that all Germans in Palestine have been clapped into concentration camps by the British, with Jews for guards.

The Germans, she related, sent an indignant protest to the British commissioner, demanding that the Jewish guards be replaced by British "because it is not within our dignity to be guarded by Jews."

Very curtly the commissioner replied that the Germans no longer had the right to make any demands and that "you lost your rights."

Now honorary president of the Versailles Soldiers' Package Society, patroness of a hospital for war invalids in the south of France and an indefatigable worker, the duchess took occasion to appeal to American women to assist her in supplying warm underclothing, chocolate, cigarettes, knitted sweaters and socks and medicinal supplies to soldiers at the front.

ASKS U. S. AID

"Ours is an international organization, with British, French and American directors," she said, "and our aim is to assist the men fighting in the trenches."

"We would deeply appreciate the aid of any American volunteer knitters who will make sweaters and socks."

Ennounced in a deep chair before a roaring fire, the Duchess described her life today in these laughing words:

"For me it is no longer a question of picking out proper decorations. All I can think of is war work."

The duchess, separated from her royal husband for the first time since their marriage when he returned to England to take appointment as major-general and liaison officer between the British and French senior, was a "disappointed

FLED GERMANY—Arriving in Boston aboard the S. S. Exeter today was Sesling Tamar, 3, in care of Nurse Ida Seebels. Canadian Boy Slayer to Die Dec. 18

WELLAND, Ont., Oct. 16 (Canadian Press)—Stewart Nighwander, 25-year-old Buffalo, N. Y., mechanic, was sentenced to death by hanging today for the mutilation slaying of Henry Dots, 12, of Buffalo, last June 19.

Justice E. R. E. Chevrier set Dec. 18 for the execution.

ROCKLAND, Oct. 16—The state fire marshal's office today began a probe of a $25,000 fire which swept the Rockland Savings Bank building for the second time in two weeks.

Cambridge Boy Is Rewarded For His Honesty

Cambridge has its answer to Diogenes today in the person of Francis Feeney, nine, of Creighton st.

Walking along Massachusetts ave., near Walden st., yesterday afternoon, Francis found $35 in bills and a check for $20, which he promptly turned over to police at Station 4.

The money was later turned over to Nicholas Bourch of Massachusetts ave., who left a suitable reward for the Feeney boy.

U. OF MAINE SAVANT DIES

OPONON, Me., Oct. 16 (AP)—Prof. William Jordan Sweetser, 65 head of the department of mechanical engineering at the University of Maine since 1915, died today after a brief illness.

COULDN'T MOVE OUT? THEY DID!

A week ago James Hennessey and family of Racine st., Roxbury, were "stranded" in their Mission Hill home, in the midst of a ghost city where a new housing project will be built.

They couldn't move, they because they lacked funds to pay a move. Today, as the result of a domestic argument now under police investigation, their moving dilemma has been temporarily taken care of.

Mrs. Mary Hennessey, 27, the mother is under treatment in City Hospital for cuts, bruises and undetermined body injuries received, according to charges which police quote her as making when her husband assaulted her.

Hennessey was arraigned in Roxbury District Court and pleaded not guilty to charges of assault and battery and neglect of his children. Judge Frankland W. L. Miles held him in $200 bail for the grand jury.

James Hennessey, Jr., five, and Joseph, two, the couple's children, are in custody of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. James Hennessey, Sr., the father, was due to face court on an assault and battery charge.

In the dock at Roxbury Crossing is a purse containing $119, which Mrs. Hennessey gave the police for safekeeping.

Immigrant's Reunion Gift Kills Wife

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—The shiny new gas stove Angelo Micheli bought to surprise his immigrant wife brought death to her and their four-year-old son the same day they arrived from Italy.

Micheli, a hotel cook, who had been in this country three years, diligently saved his money during his family here, and they arrived yesterday on the liner Rex.

A host of relatives helped Micheli welcome his wife, Amelia, 31, and his son, Bruno, to their small newly-furnished apartment on East 46th st.

Then Micheli left for work after explaining to his wife how to operate the new stove that had thrilled and delighted her.

When he returned shortly before midnight, he found the apartment full of gas fumes—Bruno lying on the kitchen floor, the body of his wife slumped over a bed in an adjoining room.

A pot of coffee was on the stove from which gas poured out of an open jet.

Mrs. Micheli had not known she must turn off the jet.

Supreme Court Will Review Milk Cases

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to pass on anti-trust litigation brought by the government against Mid-Western oil companies and Chicago milk dealers. Decisions adverse to the government were delivered by lower courts.

The court also consented to review a decision denying the amalgamated utility workers, a CIO affiliate, the right to press a charge of contempt against the Consolidated Edison Co. of New York, Inc., for alleged violation of a national labor relations board order.

Maverick Indicted In Poll Tax Probe

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 16 (AP)—Carl Wright Johnson, attorney for Mayor Maury Maverick, said Maverick was indicted today by a grand jury investigating alleged illegal issuance of poll tax receipts.

District Judge W. W. McCrory, who received the indictment from the grand jury, and District Attorney John R. Sheek would not comment.

Aged Woman Defies Gang, Collapses

Prowlers who tried to force their way into her store, then threatened her with death and hurled a rock through a window at her, nearly cost the life of an invalid Cambridge woman today.

The victim, Mrs. Julia Blackstone, 61, owner of a little variety store in Mt. Auburn st., Cambridge, collapsed after she had bravely telephoned for police, in spite of the prowlers' warning that they would shoot her if she dared to enter the phone booth.

Suffering from a chronic heart ailment, Mrs. Blackstone was so overcome by excitement that a physician, summoned by police, said her collapse had almost proved fatal.

Tells Her Story

The story she gasped out when police rescuers arrived was as follows:

"I sleep in the rear of the store. About 2 a. m., I woke up and heard an awful racket out front. Two rough-looking men were there, pounding on the window."

"When I went over to tell them to go away, they ordered me to open the door and let them in."

"Instead, I ran to the telephone booth in the store. The men could see me through the window and they kept yelling they'd shoot me if I tried to use the phone."

"I was so excited I couldn't dial for the operator for a minute or two. While I was still in the booth, one of the men threw a big rock through the window, right at me. About that time, the police answered and I told them to come as fast as they could. Then I must have fainted."

The prowlers had fled before police arrived.

Lou Gehrig Takes New Parole Job Oath

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Lou Gehrig, former first baseman-captain of the New York Yankees baseball club, today took the oath of office as a New York city parole commissioner. In administering the oath, Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia told him to use "good common sense."

Gehrig will begin his 10-year term Jan. 1 at $6000 a year less a 5 per cent salary cut, recently imposed on all city officials.

Wally Appeals to America Calls for Sweaters, Socks for Soldiers

By MERRILL MUELLER

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 16 (INS)—Still as chic and attractive as before, but now a bustling war worker instead of a woman of luxury and ease, the Duchess of Windsor received the press in her Boulevard Suchet home in Paris today and told how France and England would "welcome" socks and sweater knitted by American volunteers.

Now honorary president of the Versailles Soldiers' Package Society, patroness of a hospital for war invalids in the south of France and an indefatigable worker, the duchess took occasion to appeal to American women to assist her in supplying warm underclothing, chocolate, cigarettes, knitted sweaters and socks and medicinal supplies to soldiers at the front.

Ennounced in a deep chair before a roaring fire, the Duchess described her life today in these laughing words:

"For me it is no longer a question of picking out proper decorations. All I can think of is war work."

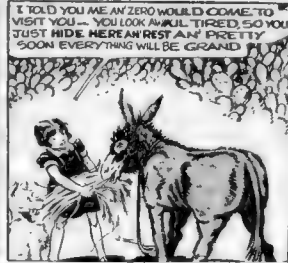

The duchess, separated from her royal husband for the first time since their marriage when he returned to England to take appointment as major-general and liaison officer between the British and French senior, was a "disappointed dream" at her first wartime press interview.

She was dressed in a black crepe dress with what lady reporters later described as "puffed shoulders and half sleeves." There were pink rose blossom buttons and a belt buckle to match, double strap shoes and doubtless other accoutrements whose nature escaped a masculine reporter's eye.

The duchess revealed that in addition to her work for the Versailles Aid Society, she had rented three chateaux adjoining her own Chateau De La Croix at Cannes. The entire four will be turned into a convalescent home for officers to be ready for January 1940.

for the trip with the owner who is our host.

Our boat has a ship-to-shore telephone and two-way radio system. She has a high bow, built for stormy seas, and a high cabin for the captain's bridge. The deck is arranged so that it can be laid off into bins for the handling of the fish.

16 IN CREW

Great nets are draped along the side, with winches for raising and lowering them. They are called otter trawls and scrape the bottom for an hour at a time before being hoisted aboard with whatever has been caught in them.

There are 16 in the crew—Ice-landers for the most part, with some from Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. The radio operator is the only Yankee among them.

As we boarded the ship, before casting off, the ship's cook, a playful fellow, remarked on the side:

"We didn't have to get any extra supplies—they won't be eating much anyway."

But he had a twinkle in his Icelandic eyes, and a merry smile under his mustache. All the crew likes him, and so do we.

There are, he said, about 200 pounds of meat aboard and endless quantities of fresh vegetables, milk, bread and the like—enough for 30 days or more, and three or four days over for a possible emergency. Meals, of course, are amplified by fish, fresh caught out of the depths of the clean sea.

INTO ANOTHER WORLD

There was considerable trepidation on our part when we took off. The sky had turned from bright blue to a dingy gray and a cold wind had begun to whip in from the Northwest, chaining the harbor to whiteness. Our fears weren't helped any by the crew, who told us that it would really start to blow around 10 o'clock at night. It did, as you back home already know.

Home! It seems a long way off now, another world beyond a curtain of gray, rolling combers, big-

Plea to Escape Life Sentence

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 16 (AP)—Sam Richard Gray Gallegly, 30, who learned to balance a teacup before he turned his hand to crime, pleaded with Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today not to send him back to Georgia's penitentiary for life.

The fugitive, still showing traces of the polish that made him a social light in Atlanta before he went to prison 11 years ago, headed from the jail house to the capitol building feeling his plea for freedom might be heeded.

Georgia authorities were determined to fight to uphold their state laws. Years in prison have ruined his health, Gallegly said between coughing spells. He still clung to his story that all he did was drive an automobile away from the scene of a robbery in which a drug clerk was killed in 1928.

Officer Finds Sister Dead in Auto Crash

SANFORD, Me., Oct. 16—Patrolman Onesphore Fournier found his sister, Mrs. Lea Ruel, 54, dead in the wreckage of an automobile here when he followed an ambulance to the scene of the crash.

Mrs. Ruel was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding smashed into a truck.

D. B. SHAW Denies 'Hounding' Baroness to Death FUNERAL PLANS SET

A solemn high requiem mass will be sung at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Ignace Chapel, Boston College, for David B. Shaw, 67, former city election and penal commissioner and prominent in Boston politics for many years.

He collapsed at the wheel of his car on Commonwealth ave., Brighton, yesterday and died while being taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

His home was at 1867 Commonwealth ave., Brighton. A popular political figure in his native Charlestown, Mr. Shaw began his career as a furniture polisher, studying law at night. He served the Charlestown district in both houses of the Legislature before and after the turn of the century, and was admitted to the bar in 1904.

In 1902 he was appointed election commissioner by Mayor Patrick A. Collins.

He also held the same post in Mayor John F. Fitzgerald's first administration and again was appointed during Mayor James M. Curley's first term. Curley appointed him penal election commissioner in April 1937.

In early January 1939 his vigorous opposition to a rooming house law, known as the Peter E. Taggart law, was prominent. He practiced law when not holding public office.

Beside his widow, the former Catherine C. McCarthy of Somerville, he leaves three brothers: Michael F. Shaw of Arlington, Philip F. of Charlestown and Morris P. of Boston.

ROB CIGAR STORE OF $382

Nathan Robinson, 41, proprietor of a cigar store in Salem st., North End, was held up and robbed of $382 by two armed youths as he opened his establishment for business today.

Denies 'Hounding' Baroness to Death

A Boston police officer, named in suicide notes left by Baroness Lillian Poccardi as "hounding her," declared today he knew her only casually through police business and had never met her socially.

The baroness, former resident of a Boston hotel, plunged nine stories to death from the Barbizon-Park Hotel, New York City, after penning a series of weirdly worded and accusing suicide notes.

The notes indicated that the victim left Boston in 1935 and had lived in Worcester and Hartford, Ct., before going to New York to elude the police officer, who was "hounding her."

Asked to explain the notes, the Boston officer revealed he had met Baroness Poccardi several years ago during the investigation of the theft of a fur coat from a Boston store where she was employed. "I know of no reason why my name should have been mentioned in the notes," he said. "I don't even know how she got my name and address. I had no contact with her except through police work." One of the eight notes found in a room, all written in the same hand and indicating that she had committed suicide, read in part: "To whom it may concern: Mrs. God made the world and did man he named him." "Is another she wrote: 'I hope a ghost chases you for the rest of your life.'"

THE SEA RAIDERS

Dramatic Story of War's Lone
Wolves of the Sea

By FRED PERKINS

WITH a rending, splintering crash, the big North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm slammed her 70-foot high steel flank hard against the side of the British freighter Correntina, less than half her size.

As the impact crumpled lifeboats, davits, rails and bridge deck of the smaller vessel, an order fraught with colorful tradition rang out on the liner:

"Boarders overside and take her!"

In blood-stained centuries long past, that order had loosed ruthless, swarthy pirate hordes to scramble, knives in teeth, aboard many a rich and helpless merchantman.

It had sent Drake's cutlasseswinging British tars to history-making close-quarter battle with the haughty Spaniard.

It had echoed when the fighting was most desperate under John Paul Jones' immortal Rattlesnake ensign.

"Boarders overside and take her!"

It was Lieut. Com. Paul Thierfelder of the Imperial German navy who gave that command aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm, Oct. 7, 1914—the day the former passenger liner, converted into an armed sea raider, came shuddering alongside the luckless Correntina!

And the modern buccaners who swarmed from the liner to the deck of the British freighter wore trim German blue-jackets, uniforms, not the gaudy regalia of their freebooter predecessors who once roved the Spanish Main with the Skull and Crossbones at the mainmast.

Commerce raiding was lawful, according to the usages of war, in 1914, as it is today. So Com. Thierfelder and his men faced no prospect of being hanged in chains, if captured, like the pirate crews of Kidd and Blackbeard.

They did, however, face the very real danger of being hunted down by British cruisers or even of being surprised and outfought by some seemingly inoffensive prize, suddenly revealed to be armed and ready for them.

Com. Thierfelder took no unnecessary chances, therefore. And the reason he resorted to medieval boarding tactics in seizing the Correntina was because his lookouts had reported she was carrying deck guns fore and aft.

THE big Kronprinz Wilhelm, though long on manpower and bulk, was woefully short on long range armament. She had been in New York harbor in her merchant vessel role when war had been declared in August, 1914. And she had slipped out to sea to a presiding and furtive rendezvous with the German cruiser Karlsruhe.

The latter had been transferring guns and ammunition aboard the liner when the British cruiser Suffolk had interrupted operations.

Half armed, the Kronprinz Wilhelm had fled to avoid capture, while the Karlsruhe decoyed the British away, fought a brief moonlight battle that night, and eventually escaped also, to take up a sea raiding career.

Now, in October, 1914, the Kronprinz Wilhelm was just beginning to get used to her own new role as a big, blustering highwayman of the ocean lanes.

The Correntina was her second prize in eight risky weeks of trans-Atlantic prowling.

The first had been the British coal ship Indian Prince halted and captured 210 nautical miles east by north of Pernambuco in the South Atlantic.

Having looted the Indian Prince of her fuel and having made prisoners of her passengers and crew, the Kronprinz Wilhelm had taken the freighter in convoy to the vicinity of lonely Trinidad island, scene of the historic duel between the British Carmanlia and the German liner Cap Trafalgar a month previously. There, off Trinidad, the Indian Prince had been scuttled and sunk.

Now, the Kronprinz Wilhelm had the Correntina on her hands, 320 miles east of Montevideo.

The German boarding crew dropped to the deck of Correntina more than half expecting desperate resistance. Com. Thierfelder hadn't liked the looks of the Correntina's two guns. They were fine, modern 4.7's, heavier and better than any on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

A shell or two from those, at close range, into the German liner's unarmored hull might bring the bigger vessel's raiding career to an early and disastrous end.

THE boarding party, therefore, was a numerous one, bristling with rifles, sub-machine guns and hand grenades. But they found the British freighter's crew tight-lipped and pale with anger, but unresisting.

The squad of British naval reservists, who manned the guns of the Correntina, grinned sarcastically as they saw the German boarders unhook the gun mountings and prepare to transfer the weapons to the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

"Take 'em, Fritzle, and much good may they do you," scoffed a leatherfaced British gunner's mate. "Blasted fine guns they are, too. But the fools at Liverpool didn't give us no ammunition for 'em. So you can have 'em now and welcome. And you can thank your lucky German stars we didn't have a case or two of shells."

"We'd have seen then how your fine big passenger tub could take a proper beating just below the water line."

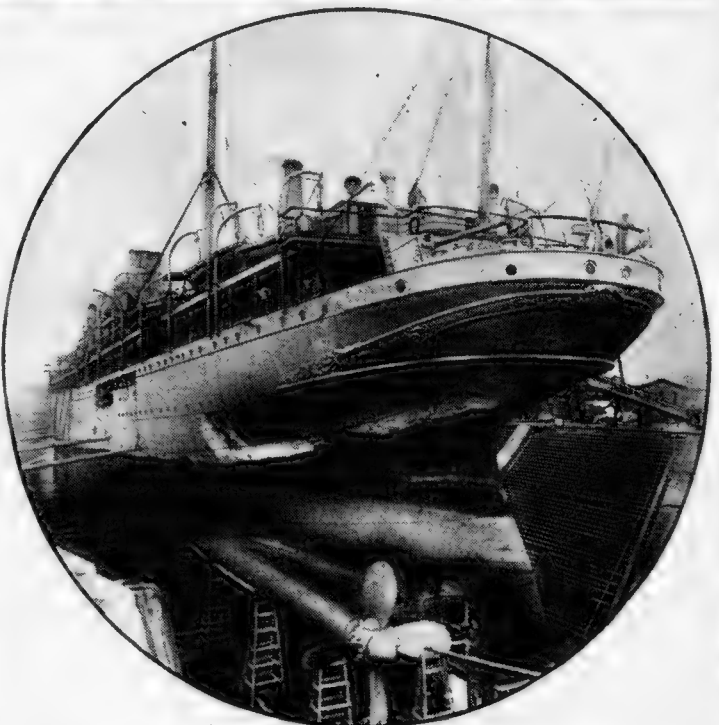

The Correntina was a vessel of 5229 tons, carrying a cargo of Argentine beef for the British army.

Having taken the freighter's crew and officers prisoner and confined them aboard the Kronprinz Wilhelm with the prisoners from the Indian Prince, Com. Thierfelder ordered coal, fresh water and a part of the beef cargo of the Correntina transferred to the liner.

On Oct. 20, the Kronprinz Wilhelm made contact with one of the numerous supply vessels that were still functioning in those early months of the war as auxiliaries to the German raiders.

This one was the one-funnel steamship Sierra Cordoba, out of a "neutral" South American port. She brought the Kronprinz Wilhelm coal, fresh provisions, soap, cigars, clothing for men and officers, and newspapers with lists of merchant sailings and reports of progress of the war in Europe.

Com. Thierfelder was able now to transfer his prisoners to the Sierra Cordoba and sent them ashore. Then, with nothing else on his mind but his job as a raider, he headed across the ocean trade routes leading up to the Horn and Magellan Straits.

Kronprinz Wilhelm in Drydock After Newport News Internment

THERE he halted and captured the French sailing vessel Union, an iron-hulled four-masted, bound for Buenos Aires with 3100 tons of Cardiff coal.

Had Com. Thierfelder been more experienced and a professional modern buccaneer, he would have sunk the Union forthwith and gone ahead with further raiding in this productive area.

But he couldn't resist the temptation of that good cargo of coal. For three long weeks he towed the Union, while he waited for the weather to calm sufficiently so he could transfer the fuel from her hold to his bunkers.

And when he finally did bring the unwieldy iron Union alongside the Kronprinz Wilhelm, the liner took a pounding which severely damaged her plates.

This looting of the Union was an inept maneuver in every way. And it finally came to an awkward end when the French sailing vessel, insufficiently ballasted as the weight of coal below her decks was removed, suddenly capsized one day and went to the bottom, snapping the hawsers which held her to the big raider and almost costing the lives of German sailors employed in the cargo transfer work.

Heading south again now, the Kronprinz Wilhelm next captured another French sailing vessel, the barque Anne de Bretagne, bound for Australia with a load of lumber.

This prize confronted the ex-passenger liner-raider with a new problem.

For the Anne de Bretagne, with her buoyant cargo, stubbornly refused to sink, even after Com. Thierfelder's men had touched off four time bombs in her hold and had riddled her hull with 25 full rounds of high explosive shell-fire an expenditure of ammunition the Kronprinz Wilhelm could not afford for so futile a purpose.

Finally, in his exasperation, Com. Thierfelder ordered the French lumber vessel rammed.

But again the big passenger liner suffered costly and irreparable damage, being put thus to a use for which her builders never intended her.

As a matter of fact, the principal value of the sea raiding experiences of the huge four-stack Kronprinz Wilhelm and her sister ship, the Prinz Eitel

Friedrich, was to teach the German high command the unsuitability of large passenger liners for this modern, legalized war-piracy.

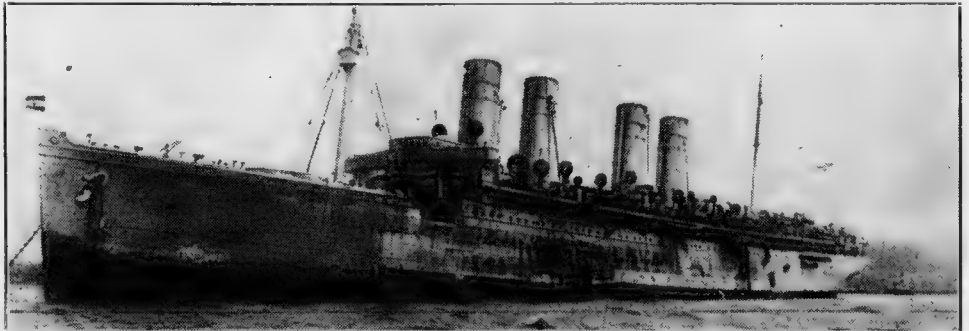

THEY burned too much coal, they needed too frequent provisioning; they were too vulnerable to shell-fire and ocean accident; they were too easily identifiable.

But, returning to the Kronprinz Wilhelm, she cruised for weeks in the South Atlantic, with indifferent success, sometimes shelling her prizes, sometimes ramming them—always getting shorter and shorter of coal, fresh food, and ammunition, always becoming more and more in urgent need of repairs.

Finally, with 15 Allied vessels on her list of victims, the big German raider headed back to find rest and refuge in the neutral haven of a U. S. port.

It was an unromantic end to a buccaneering project which had started so romantically.

KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR —Be Neutral—

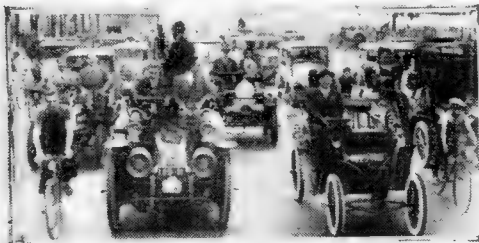

THE LATE ARTHUR BRISBANE, great writer and profound thinker, called the automobile "America's Home on Wheels."

Frequently, to the millions of men and women who read his daily comments, he pointed out that a motor car doubles the value of a man's time and thus doubles the value of his life.

"It brings happiness to his entire family, providing health and pleasure for every member," he said.

"It brings the greatness of the nation within easy reach; the grandeur of the hills, the beauty and coolness of the sea-side.

"The automobile is the American's other home—his house on wheels, moving in obedience to his will."

MOTORING IN THE STYLE OF 30 YEARS AGO
Vehicles That Paved Way for "America's Home on Wheels"

As we join the thousands of New Englanders who are visiting Boston showrooms and inspecting the new models of 1940, we cannot but wonder what Arthur Brisbane would say now if it were possible for him to return and see these beautiful, streamlined cars.

Seats as luxuriously soft as the living room's best chair, temperatures marvelously regulated, motors and gears that respond to a touch of the operator's finger, colors chosen and blended to satisfy every taste and whim—surely he would agree with us that "America's Home on Wheels" has truly become a WINGED PALACE.

And yet, despite the scores of costly improvements, prices remain well within the limits of the average bank account!

This is possible because the automobile industry has equipped itself to build BETTER AUTOMOBILES, with an abiding confidence that the people will buy them.

It has anticipated conditions in the country that justify re-employment and expenditures for the IMPROVED product.

Consequently, it has put hundreds of thousands of men back to work, not in merely filling orders, BUT WITH THE FIRM ASSURANCE THAT THERE WILL BE ORDERS.

Not content to lag behind America, or even to go ahead with America, it is SHOWING THE WAY TO AMERICA by stepping out ahead of the Recovery Parade.

Such is the spirit that pervades every Boston automobile showroom—the same spirit which, year after year, has enabled motor manufacturers to prove that the well-known French courtier was right when he said to the queen, "If it is possible, it HAS been done; it is impossible, it SHALL be done."

The "impossible" of the period of machines in the interesting picture and even of a year ago has indeed been done in the wondrous automobiles of 1940.

We find it a privilege and a pleasure to say:

"Come to Boston, see the new cars, AND BUY THEM."

A READER OBJECTS to the use of the word welsh in newspapers and magazines. To call the debt-repudiating nations of Europe welshers is to be unfair to the inhabitants of Wales, he says.

This is a serious complaint, and one certainly worth considering. By tradition and nature, the Welsh people are honest, upright and true to a promise.

They have nobly struggled for centuries in their native villages against privation and oppression.

Their courage earned the respect of the Duke of Windsor, who, as Edward VIII, rebuked the government for not helping them.

Surely nobody would think of holding them responsible for the payment of the whole British war debt.

The English language contains many such injustices. Well-known examples are guillotine and lynching.

Dr. J. I. Guillotin merely proposed a humane method of executing condemned criminals. But when the beheading machine was adopted, it was given his name.

Lynch became a verb because of the extrajudicial methods of trial and punishment employed by Charles Lynch, a Virginia planter, against Tories.

Although thousands of the namesakes and descendants of Dr. Guillotin and Planter Lynch despise violence of any kind, guillotine and lynch still appear in dictionaries.

Grant then that with Life's setting sun . . . when all our work on earth is done . . . we, too, find rest and peace somewhere . . . in some celestial easy chair.

Human Side of News -3- By EDWIN C. HILL

IT IS, indeed, quite a world shake-up which lands Juliet's balcony in a Brooklyn warehouse, and leaves it there unheeded and unwanted. Many such balconies have gone to Cain's warehouse in years past, but this is the original, brought from Italy by the late Dr. John Harris. The public administrator of D. Harris' estate calls for bids, but no one is interested.

The story of Romeo and Juliet was told and believed in Italy long before Shakespeare put it into a play. The play was published in 1597.

In 1530, Luigi da Porto had written the tale, in virtually its later play form, in his "Historia Novellamente Retrovata di duo Nobili Amanti." He had obtained it from a Veronese archer called Peregrino. The locale was the castle of the Capulets at Verona.

So one may make a pilgrimage to Brooklyn and murmur to the gentle Juliet, "Therefore stay yet; thou needs not to be gone."

IT WAS ONLY a few months ago that the dragon throne of the Manchus was lost for five days in a New York waterfront freight shed, adrift in the world detritus of war and change after more than 300 years as the seat of an ancient dynasty.

Juliet's balcony could be bought by a Brooklyn night club, for use in a swing version of "Believe me, love, it was the nightingale," and that would not mar a line of Shakespeare's immortal tragedy.

The wisdom of Confucius and Leo Tze remains no matter how many dragon thrones come and go

"BELIEVE ME, LOVE, IT WAS THE NIGHTINGALE"
Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer in "Romeo and Juliet" or where they end up.

The world of tomorrow will be a continuing stream of aspiration, the confluence of all that has gone before, and not the trappings and stage properties which float on the surface.

IT IS CONCEIVABLE that a savage world war might destroy the Book of Kels, the galleries of the Pitti and Uffizi, the Cathedral of Chartres, the Louvre—all the treasures and the glories of the human spirit which have tangible expression. But as long as there is "one just man among us" it will be an end of human civilization.

Probably the greatest loss to the humanities in all the history of the world was the burning of the great library of Alexandria, storehouse of long centuries of learning. It was a much higher concentration of the world's knowledge than any of today. There was no printing press then, only parchment scrolls, no diffusion of great literary classics among great multitudes of people.

The loss was tragic and appalling. Fittingly it ushered in the dark ages.

But the dark ages passed and learning, nurtured in the monastic orders of the deserts of the Near East, flowered again and brought forth fruit.

-3- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Recently, we attended the dinner at the National Women's Democratic Club, which I imagine really opens their season. This club offers Democratic women all over the country, who come to Washington, an opportunity for any information or assistance that they may need. It caters to women not only on business bent, but also those seeking diversion in the nation's capital.

I think the club will gradually become a center where women from all over the country may meet, become acquainted with each other, and with the Democratic party as it functions in other parts of the country.

I WAS surprised in talking to some Democratic women from different parts of the United States, to find that when the call had come to them to organize a money raising day for the National Democratic Committee and the National Democratic Club, that many of them felt they could not undertake this burden because of previous local financial campaigns or because of some other work for the party which had been going on during previous months.

This happens to be a country where the two party system is necessary to the proper functioning of our democracy. Therefore, it seems to me that when the women in either party are asked to make a special effort for some party activity, it is part of their obligation as citizens to do so.

You may be collecting money which seems unimportant, but you are also obliged to give reasons for the need of that money. It is an opportunity to get across the ideas of the various parties. That is fundamental to the proper functioning as citizens in a democracy.

It seems to me the women should be the first to grasp this fact and should give their full co-operation with the sense that they are performing not only a party obligation, but an obligation to the country which functions under a party system.

THIS MORNING I had an opportunity of talking with a number of people on various types of educational programs. I am much interested to find that the labor unions are now recognizing the value in adult education of giving people a knowledge of various arts and crafts. The possibility of creative work is important and appreciation of these arts adds greatly to the cultural life of our people.

I attended the luncheon of the B'nai B'rith Auxiliary of the District of Columbia, which celebrated its first birthday. The organization as a whole is 96 years old in this country and this auxiliary is a very vigorous baby.

The record of work accomplished during this first year took my breath away. I only wish that every organization would put forth as much energy and enthusiasm, for we would have remarkable results.

LEFTY GOMEZ GOES TO COOPERSTOWN

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Lefty Gomez will recuperate in Cooperstown, the place where baseball was born . . . After waiting in Atlanta five days, Mrs. Gurrah Shapiro was allowed to speak to her husband for 15 minutes. She wasn't permitted to mention the Lepke case . . . Charles Laughton, who was scheduled to arrive here for the premiere of his new movie, "Jamaica Inn," will be delayed two weeks. He needs treatment for mastoids.

FINANCIAL DEPT.—Somerset Maugham has written to literary agents here offering to sell the manuscripts of all his books. The original manuscripts he has been saving ever since he first began to write . . . Maugham will sell them for $50,000 . . . The money would be placed into a Trust Fund for the benefit of new and deserving writers.

MOVIES DEPT.—Jim Thurber, who returned from Hollywood to produce his new play here, was describing his reactions to the film colony . . . "All the people in Hollywood," he said, "gave me the feeling that the boat would dock soon—and they'd never see each other again."

POLITICS DEPT.—When LaGuardia first was a candidate for public office 25 years ago, his opponent for the Congressional job he sought was Mike Farley . . . LaGuardia won on a platform which stressed but one thought: "If Jimmy Walker were my opponent, I wouldn't be a candidate" . . . LaGuardia reminded Walker about this recently. "Well, Fiorello," said Walker, "you changed your mind in '29, didn't you?" . . . "Yes," said LaGuardia, "but then the stakes were bigger."

DANCE DEPT.—Recently Cortez Peters broadcast on a radio program. He imitated Bill Robinson's tap-dancing, by using only a typewriter . . . Robinson invited Peters to do this stunt at the World's Fair . . . After the broadcast, Bill was shown the typewriter and the paper on which Peters had been typing in tap-rhythm . . . CHARLES LAUGHTON

BOSTON After DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

MONDAY MUSINGS: Boy and man, these many years, Eddie Cantor has won a reputation for quiet philanthropy that is surely deserved . . . He's playing the Keith-Boston, and still missing from his troupe is the familiar "Frenchy" . . . Until a few seasons ago, the wiry little masseur and valet has been part and parcel of the Cantor entourage for a long time . . . Here's why "Frenchy" is missing:

WHEN WALL STREETS' graphs went into the 1929 nose-dive, the banjo-eyed comedian really took a beating . . . It came when the walls in Eddie's (and Ida's) new $400,000 Great Neck home had barely settled . . . Yesterday, it was theirs. Today any man coming up the walk might be the auctioneer. Every cent was gone. Even Jessel had never been this broke . . . "Don't worry, Ida, I'll get an act ready, and I'd like to write a book about the crash with the title 'Caught Short.'" . . . "If you're smart, my dear," was Ida's reply, "you will first go to the country and relax a day or two and collect your wits."

AN HOUR LATER Cantor was on the golf course, but hair-line putts are hardly made to order for fellows who have just gone thoroughly broke, and who have trouble at best in relaxing . . . Eddie tossed away the golf sticks and went to the locker-room for a rubdown. This was about 2:00 p. m. At a quarter to seven, he awoke on the rubbing table . . . "Where am I? What time is it?" . . . "You've been asleep, Mr. Cantor" . . . "But," said the comedian, it isn't dark yet. I never sleep in the daytime. I have trouble enough sleeping at night" . . . "You can sleep at any hour, Mr. Cantor, if you learn to relax" . . . "You mean you put me to sleep?" . . . "Yes, sir!" . . . "How much money a week do you make here?" . . . "About $45, and maybe ten more in tips" . . . "Tomorrow morning," announced Cantor, "you start drawing a hundred. You're working for me now."

THUS BEGAN THE ASSOCIATION of Eddie Cantor and Edmond Frauchiger, the diminutive masseur. Cantor nicknamed him "Frenchy" . . . And it was "Frenchy" who showed him how a man can work hard sixteen hours a day if he knows how to sleep soundly for eight . . . Five years passed . . . Then one day Cantor said, "Frenchy, do you suppose you could find me an assistant, some other fellow who could put me to sleep?" . . . "I am fired, not!" . . . Cantor laughed. "No—you aren't fired . . . Next week you enroll in medical school."

"FRENCHY" BROKE IN AN ASSISTANT and went away to college . . . Last spring he was graduated and in July he sailed for his native Switzerland, where he has set up practice in Berne . . . His going-away gift from the man he taught to relax was two trunks . . . One was filled with new suits, and the other with surgical instruments.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY Katherine Rand, the graceful beauty who danced as Mickey Alpert's partner for several years, is playing at the Westminster Blue Room while Alpert is at the Cocomat Grove . . . Barbara McDonald is another dancer currently in town who rates at least A-minus in a beauty contest . . . She's at the Brown Derby.

JEAN ARTHUR GETS COMEDY ROLE

By Louella O. Parsons

Jean Arthur

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 16.—We can all stop guessing about Jean Arthur's movie engagements. She keeps a date at Columbia with Wesely Ruggles, but of course it won't be Atzena, which has been indefinitely postponed. This time it's Somerset Maugham's "Too Many Husbands," a gay comedy with Fred MacMurray and Melvyn Douglas, who reports when he finishes "Not Too Narrow, Not Too Deep" at M-G-M.

WITH the great housecleaning arriving at M-G-M, Bob Benchley soon when, I am glad to say, however, that he won't be lost touch for we need his type of laughmakers. He will continue to make his popular shorts for Selznick International on a six-year basis, three to be made in New York and three here. Bob's new deal is really a reunion of old friends, for David Selznick first brought him into the movies at RKO and later took him to M-G-M.

A LINE OF TWO: Olivia De Havilland, who is soon beautiful in Twentynine, is again with Errol Flynn in "Virginia City" . . . Don't miss seeing "Drunk Driving," the best preachment against imbibing motorists you'll ever see . . . Mr. Capra (Frank) to you goes to Washington to make an appearance at the world premiere of his "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" at the National Press Club.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD Virginia Peine is being rushed in New York by both Anatole Litvak and Lin Howard. But all Hollywood believes that Litvak's heart really belongs to Ann Sheridan. Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor have to get started on Love New York-Canadian just today; Reginald Gardiner and Tamara Geyva a new diet; George Raft's auto accident on Friday the 13th has him on the superstitious side.

MILLIE OFFER: Has rented a house in Bel Air to live in while she is making American pictures. Eddie Condon, who has been vacationing in the big town, arrives Tuesday to visit her in "We Shall Meet Again"; everyone turned to look at Richard Dix and his handsome twin boys at the football game Saturday; congratulations to Lloyd Bacon who celebrates his 13th year at Warner Brothers today; Dorothy Lamour will take a trip to New Orleans, the home town, before she starts emceeing opposite Tyrone Power in "Johnny Apollo" . . . DAILY STORY

Child Wife

I WAS ONLY FIFTEEN when I married Alan, a man 16 years my senior. The inhabitants of the small town in which we lived were up in arms when they found out and did all they could to make Alan and me unhappy.

After six months of misery and humiliation we moved to a large city. Alan got a job on a newspaper and we were comparatively well off.

He often brought his friends and their wives to our apartment and they would drink, smoke, and dance until all hours. Often, however, they would make fun of me and accuse me of being naive, innocent.

Finally Alan began to urge me to drink with him and smoke, be sophisticated as he termed it. Finally I did so. We went out dancing a great deal and in one month I had lost ten pounds.

ONE NIGHT I felt exhausted, ill. I hated the idea of going out, drinking, laughing till the laughter cut in my throat. But Alan was determined and compelled me to come along. It was a wet, dreary night and I was thinly clad in a chiffon evening gown and a light wrap. Because I felt so depressed I tried to drown my sorrows and weariness in drink.

Coming home I was taken with a chill, became hysterical, delirious. Alan sobered up enough to put me to bed and call the doctor.

My weakened condition and general depression were by no means assets to a recovery, however, and for six weeks I was in bed, hovering close to death. Alan, white and miserable, was at my side every minute, waiting on me.

AFTER THE CRISIS had passed and I had recovered some of my strength, he took me in his arms and carried me out to the sunporch.

With tears rolling down his sunken cheeks he told me what a fool he had been.

He promised me that never again would there recur a succession of those wild, gay nights we had spent, for he realized what they would do to me, to both of us.

And Alan has kept that promise. He is again the considerate, adoring man I fell in love with and married two years ago.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

LOTS OF THINGS are going on out the Big Wind, nowadays . . . things we once thought indispensable for 16-cylinder lives. College educations, frinstance. Obviously they were necessary in certain careers.

But how about the youngsters who had neither special talent nor particular aim—WERE DEGREES WORTH WHAT THEY COST IN THEIR CASES? We wondered. Decided to ask the several million Young Americans who parked on this desk what they thought about it.

AND FOUND, TO OUR HUGE SURPRISE, THAT OUT OF THOUSANDS OF TYPICAL YOUNGSTERS, MORE THAN TWO-THIRDS FELT THAT COLLEGE WASN'T WORTH THE PRICE THE OLD FOLKS HAD TO PAY!

Here's young Rosetta V. Bourne, of Lusby, Maryland:

"Everyone agrees that serious students deserve the best possible start. But how many serious students can you find on the average campus? Nine-tenths of them are there to make whoopee—and I think it's disgusting!"

"IT'S NOT FAIR TO EXPECT POOR PARENTS TO STRUGGLE AND SACRIFICE FOR YOUNG PEOPLE WHO ONLY SEE LIFE AS A MARRY-

GO-ROUND AND USE THEIR COLLEGE YEARS AS A PERPETUAL JOY RIDE.

"I know I'll get a Ditty Look from all my fellow co-eds, but I still say to these 'synthetic scholars'—IF YOU'VE GOT A SPARK OF DECENCY, QUIT YOUR FOOLING . . . LEAVE THE CAMPUS . . . AND GIVE YOUR PARENTS A CHANCE!"

ALL THE TIME you've been thinking that the "Young Generation's" juxta-bunch of selfish brats who haven't a thought beyond their own pleasure! Hard to swallow? Here are some even harder, from Donald Hunter, of Columbus, Ohio.

"The trouble with most students, and parents and professors as well," says Donald, "is that they confuse facts with knowledge. College can give us facts, yes. And we think that's all there is to it. But it isn't."

"We can find facts everywhere, but knowledge only comes when we apply those facts to daily experience. Facts can be bought, knowledge must be achieved by our own struggles. And most of us are too busy with campus fun to realize this fact."

Smile of Boy Halts Leg Amputation

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 16 (AP)—Alfred Leon Miller, Jr., a courageous seven-year-old farm boy, smiled his way right out from under the surgeon's knife.

He may learn tonight whether the reprieve he won for his badly crushed left leg is permanent. Surgeons who had rushed him to an operating room to amputate now say Alfred Leon's strength will save him.

CAUGHT IN FEED MIXER

Alfred Leon helps his father raise turkeys on a farm near Liberty, 20 miles from here. Saturday, with no school, he volunteered to work all day.

He was just finishing sweeping the barn when he slipped and plunged into the shaft of a feed mixer. His leg was caught in the grinding tumbler.

It took almost two hours for workmen using blow torches and cutting tools to free him. Bravely he smiled through his tears. His mother, frantic herself from worry, shouted words of encouragement. Tears streaming down her face, she stood in the basement as Alfred Leon wouldn't see.

WINCES BUT SMILES

He winced from pain but was comforted by his mother's voice. His left leg was terribly twisted and both bones were crushed.

After he finally was freed, a Liberty physician stopped the flow of blood and rushed Alfred Leon home. Surgeons sped him to an operating room.

Then they noted his brave smile, his boyish determination to "be a man" for the operation.

They wheeled him back to his room and agreed on a "desperate attempt" to save him from becoming a cripple for life.

Woman Fined After Crash; Man Injured

Mrs. Irene M. Young of Mondamin et., Somerville, was found guilty by Judge Charles F. Gadsby in Somerville court today of operating to endanger on Elm st. on the morning of Sept. 21, and was fined $100.

Execution of the sentence was suspended until Nov. 16 to give Mrs. Young time to pay the fine.

Police allege that Mrs. Young was operating an automobile that went up over the sidewalk, cut away a steel street sign at the base, tore away 25 feet of wooden fence, knocking down and severely injuring William J. Gearty, 42, of 7 Gilson ter., Somerville.

Gearty lost his right arm in the accident and suffered multiple injuries of the body. He has been confined since that time to the Somerville Hospital.

Gearty was standing on the sidewalk, waiting for fellow workmen to pick him up in their car and take him to his job at the Watertown Arsenal.

Sees Only 'U.S.' Fooled In Arms Ban

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (Special to Boston Evening American) Somebody is going to be badly fooled if the arms embargo is repealed, in the opinion of Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan.

The question in the Senator's mind is whether that somebody is going to be the people of the United States or this country's friends and neighbors, particularly Canada. It would be tragic to fool either, in the Senator's opinion.

Interrupting Senator Lynn J. Frazier (R.) of North Dakota in the course of his speech against the embargo repeal in the Senate, Sen. Vandenberg observed:

"When I was submitting my observations to the Senate on the question of embargo repeal I suggested that somebody is going to be fooled as the result of repeal, either our own people, who are expecting too much peace, or our friends and neighbors, who are expecting too much help."

"I have a very interesting exhibit on the subject which I should like to place in the record. It is a letter from Detroit in the Canadian city of Windsor, Ontario. The Windsor Daily Star, in its issue of Sept. 21, 1938, carries an editorial comment on the front page, from which I read as follows:

"The arms embargo clause of the neutrality act will be repealed for a starter—and the United States of America will be in the war along about the middle of next January."

"Mr. President, I repeat that somebody is going to be fooled, and it would be scarcely less tragic if our friends and neighbors were fooled than if we ourselves were fooled."

3 Hurt in Crash At Charlestown

One man was critically injured and two women less seriously hurt today when their car went out of control and struck a pole at Main and School sts., Charlestown.

Hollis Pratt, 24, of Portland, Me., suffered a fracture of the skull. His wife and Amelia Beking, 20, also of Portland, suffered cuts and bruises.

GIRL JILTS BOY HELD IN KILLING

way for the murder charge.

Walt Howe, were Lieut. Anthony C. Lammers and Sergeants Thomas Carr and Joseph C. Ryan, all of New Bedford.

The couple, who are accused of the country's greatest crime, exchanged no glances during the time they were in the courtroom.

The boy, really dressed and with his head held straight down, was arrested last and in a firm voice said, "not guilty" when asked to plead to the complaints. Reading charges was waived by his counsel, City Solicitor Francis A. Doyle of New Bedford.

Then Howe was led back to his cell, a bench against the left wall, it was two windows from which he could see only the back of his court-sweatshirt.

SIGNED STATEMENTS

When the girl was led to the bar from her place with the matron, it was the first time she was not escorted by counsel and the complaints were read. Her pleas of "not guilty" were weak but audible. Judge Healy asked if the police had confessions from the couple.

"We have statements made by both of the defendants to the police," replied Dist. Atty. Dewing. "Are these statements signed by the accused?" inquired the judge.

"They are, your honor," said Dewing.

The judge then set bail of $2500 for each on the looking and entering complaints and held the couple without bail on the murder charge for the November term of Norfolk county grand jury.

The entire proceedings had occupied little more than three minutes.

MOTHER WITH GIRL

Before being taken back to Dedham jail, the girl had a few words with her mother, Mrs. Helen H. Hayes of Ogunquit, who had come down from Maine with a woman friend.

Young Howe remained in the courtroom for an hour after the formal proceedings, talking with his father. Then he was taken to Dedham jail.

Following the arraignment, Police Chief Peter J. McGawery of Stoughton, a World War veteran of the 101st Engineers, told the press that solving of the murder and arrest of the young couple as the slayers was proof of what co-operation could do among police divisions.

He said that it was teamwork by the Stoughton police, New Bedford police and state police which had brought about the arrests.

Dist. Atty. Dewing said that he will present the case to the grand jury as soon as it convenes and that the couple will be given a speedy trial, with counsel furnished for the girl.

The boy's counsel, City Solicitor Doyle, told the Boston Evening American that after talking with young Howe's parents he feels compelled to advance insanity as the defense.

Young Howe, the attorney said, has always been a problem child since a fall from a garage and a severe injury he suffered to his head. He is the only one of the five children, Doyle said, to have given his parents any trouble.

The girl now declares she doesn't love Howe any more, but he protests his love for her, insisting he had robbed "because she was hungry."

From the cell once occupied by Norma Miller, in Dedham jail Helen Hayes repudiated the love which brought her into companionship with Howe, a girl who had all gone well, was to have led to marriage instead of the courts.

A Stoughton mother, Mrs. Rose Pulawski, and her daughter, Mrs. Julia Crane, told police they had provided a youth answering Howe's description with a meal the day after the murder and that he told them he had been vainly seeking work for a month.

Pedestrian Fatalities Rise

There were five fewer automobile fatalities last week than in the same period of 1938, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin said today, but the percentage of pedestrians killed, the majority at night, is running high.

Thirteen persons were reported killed last week, two less than the week before, Goodwin said.

"Our record for this year, however, is steadily improving with 385 deaths listed to date against 434 in the same period last year; 46 fewer, or a reduction of over 9 per cent."

"During the week 116 licenses were taken away for driving after drinking, and 329 were suspended for improper operation. There were also 585 warning letters sent to persons complained of by the police and my inspectors for driving in an improper manner."

Press Hunt for 2 Vt. Convicts

WINDSOR, Vt., Oct. 16—Deputy sheriffs, jail guards and police of a dozen towns today searched for two convicts who escaped from Vermont State Prison by hauling themselves over a 25-foot wall with a rope.

The men, Francis Reed, 22, of Puttsford, and Howard Brodmerke, 23, of Lancaster, Mass., fled from the prison engine room, where they had been working with the chief engineer, a veteran guard.

Following an apparently pre-arranged plan, the convicts ran to the wall while the engineer, Fred Gardner, was changing his clothes. They hauled themselves to the top of the wall after tossing the end of a weighted rope over the barrier.

Beats Salesman, Steals Auto for 'Heavy Date'

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Husky Frank Humel, 20, was held today after authorities said he confessed beating an auto salesman, tying him and stuffing him unconscious into a trunk—all to gain an automobile for "a heavy date with a girl."

Asst. Dist. Atty. John Krogman said Humel, booked on assault and robbery charges, lured the salesman, Harry McGill, 55, to his home in Long Island City Saturday by asking for a demonstration ride.

Krogman said McGill told him after driving off in the car, fear that "McGill might die" led him to call St. John's Hospital anonymously and inform they would find "a body in a trunk in the yard" at his address.

Police responded and found the salesman, his skull fractured, inside the locked trunk. His arms were bound and his lips sealed with adhesive tape.

Hospital physicians said McGill, father of four children, was in serious condition.

BROCK PEMBERTON AGREES 'STARS ARE PAIN IN THE NECK'

PHILIP OBER and Carmel White in a scene from the Clare Boothe Broadway comedy hit, "Kiss The Boys Goodbye," opening tonight at the Wilbur.

Pemberton Seeks Plays That Don't Need Big Names

By PEGGY DOYLE

Producer Brock Pemberton, who brings Clare Boothe's second Broadway hit comedy, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," to the Wilbur tonight, is inclined to agree with Playwright George Kaufman that "stars are a pain in the neck."

"The one way to avoid the problem is to get a star script," he said, last night, at the Touraine cocktail-lounge, where the two on a swiggle he ordered proved to be just a prop.

"I try to do that—get a play that's so good it doesn't need names. This system, incidentally, has netted the theater a sizeable array of stars. I lifted Walter Houston off the vaudeville stage to put him on Broadway. Gladys George was in stock before I presented her in 'Personal Appearance'."

"Margaret Sullivan was Elizabeth Love's (the 'Cindy Lee' of tonight's 'Kiss the Boys Goodbye') understudy in 'Strictly Dishonorable' when Hollywood 'discovered' her. Cesar Romero was a dancer until I put him in 'Strictly Dishonorable.' Tullio Carminelli is a mother of my discoveries."

Mr. Pemberton hopes to bring Miss George, who's been a favorite from the legitimate theater too long, back to Broadway soon in a dramatization of Margery Sharp's "The Nutmeg Tree," an idea vehicle for her, he thinks.

Then there's the little matter of a Lincoln script that he's had in his files since before Raymond Massey's tremendous success in Robert E. Sherwood's Pulitzer prize-winning drama, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Paul Horgan wrote it. It deals with the period immediately preceding Lincoln's death and is chiefly concerned with Lincoln's conflict with Stanton.

"Paul Muni was to have appeared in it but he couldn't get out of certain picture commitments. Originally, I had Walter Haddon in mind for it. After the Sherwood play success, I met

Walter on the street one day and he wondered out loud what would have happened if he had appeared in my Lincoln play first as planned.

"Anyway, I still want to do it. I don't think audiences have had too much of Lincoln." About Broadway's sudden and abnormal health, Mr. Pemberton thinks the war's to blame.

It's a case, he says, of people not knowing what's going to happen and deciding they might as well enjoy life while they may.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

ELEANOR CLAFLIN and Marjorie Bemis, sister debs of the 1934-35 season, will always remember Oct. 14 as a double duty date . . . for it will be the anniversary of both Eleanor's engagement to Thomas Blake Williams, and Marjorie's marriage to Arthur Perry, Jr. . .

The Perry-Bemis wedding in the Second Church of Newton, Saturday, provided Eleanor with her first opportunity to display her brand new engagement ring in public . . . She and her mother, Mrs. Thomas Claflin, were early arrivals at the church so they were able to sit in a middle-aisle pew and get a good view of the colorful wedding party . . . Eleanor was a member of the U. S. Women's Ski team at Sun Valley last winter, and her fierce also comes from a family of expert skiers . . .

Vivid emerald green satia gown for the bridesmaids, and pale apricot for the honor attendants, provided a colorful contrast to Marjorie's bridal satin, tulle and lace as she stood before the lily banked altar to recite the marriage vows . . . The attendants' gowns were made with bustles, low square necklines, bracelet sleeves and slight trains, and each one's headpiece was fashioned of a single ostrich plume the color of her gown . . . Their bouquets were large vivid clusters of marigolds, gladioli and delphinium . . .

Mrs. Albert Farwell Bemis, mother of the bride, chose a full length gown of beige crepe with a small hat of dubonnet petals, a taupe maribou cape and a corsage of pink and dubonnet lilies . . . Mrs. Perry's hat and gown were of wine velvet . . . the gown made with long tight sleeves and a bustle back . . .

Wedding guests included Olive Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bemis, Mrs. Frances Cooley Hall, Phyllis Motley, Frances Hovey with her fiancé, John S. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan B. Talbot, Priscilla Hall and many others . . .

Chilton Club Debut by Patricia Bayne

PATRICIA BAYNE'S favorite flowers are gardenias . . . She wore them on the shoulder of her simple gray wool dress for her informal debut party at the Chilton Club today . . . and place cards for each guest were clusters of the same fragrant flowers tied with silver ribbon . . .

Patricia, daughter of the William Baynes of Westwood, is having a double header debut . . . after today's luncheon for her sister debs, she begins to prepare an invitation list for the dance her parents are giving for her at the Dedham Country and Polo Club in December . . .

"RUMTIQUES" is the name coined by Mrs. Henry V. Greenough to describe last year's sale of rummage and antiques staged by the Farm and Garden Association to raise funds for its work in selling the handiwork and farm products of New England farm women . . . and the word was so popular that it applies to this year's sale scheduled for Nov. 1 and 2 in Horticultural Hall . . .

Mrs. Irving Wright is again heading the committee, and her helpers include Mrs. Russell Coolidge, Mrs. Stanwood G. Bradlee, Mrs. H. Bigelow Emerson, Mrs. Daniel E. Kennedy, Mrs. James D. Colt, Mrs. Morrill Wiggin, Mrs. John H. Cunningham and others . . .

Southboro Girl Weds

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Webster of Southboro announce the marriage of their daughter, Martha Philbrick Webster, to Frederick Leon Phelps, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Phelps of Middleton, Ct.

The couple were wed in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Southboro, with the Rev. Robert F. Cheney officiating.

The altar was decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums. Charles Lamar of Marlboro, organist, played the traditional wedding marches. Miss Elizabeth Staples of Southboro was maid of honor and Max Good of Monticello, Me., was best man.

The quartet of bridesmaids included Misses Ruth Walton, Chicago, a classmate of the bride; Mary Davis, Jane Johnson and Lillian Jewell, Southboro.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Holyoke College, class of 1937, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Boston University, class of 1936, and a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps will be at home after Oct. 30 at 5 Byfield rd., Waban.

Dr. Eddy's Question Box

WHAT VITAMINS AID THE MEMBRANES?

WHERE CAN YOU GET PURE FOOD RULES?

By DR. WALTER H. EDDY

Director of Good Housekeeping Bureau

Is there a vitamin which will help keep the membranes in a healthy condition? If so, in what foods can this vitamin be found?

MRS. J. A. T.

To maintain the normal condition of the membranes which line the throat, the body must receive daily an adequate supply of Vitamin A. It is generally agreed that at least 6000 international Units of vitamin A per day are necessary. To maintain the healthy condition of the blood-vessel walls vitamin C is required.

Vitamin A is found in abundance in green vegetables such as spinach and in yellow vegetables such as carrots. Butter is also an excellent source.

Vitamin C is found in fruits and vegetables. It should therefore be easily possible to secure an adequate supply of both these vitamins.

VITAMIN C is the anticorbutic vitamin, because its absence from the diet results in scurvy. It is particularly abundant in fruits, green vegetables and milk. Oranges, lemons and tomatoes are the richest known sources.

There are also available capsules containing these vitamins which can be used to supplement the diet.

You Can Be Beautiful

You Need The Right Perfume

By ARLINE GOULD

TAKE the word of a country-wide-known perfume consultant, with whom you may get together over your perfume-personality problems this week. "It takes more than feminine intuition to choose the one fragrance which will 'lift' a costume into definite personality."

She goes on. "The new fall clothes present a definite challenge—so unusual, so feminine, provocative yet well-bred! Draping is an exciting highlight in the new Paris models—released from corselet-yokes, cascading from moulded waistlines, swept over one hip, tugged to the back. Most radical and becoming are the new bustles, of various sizes and manipulations, but always done with restraint—and most flattering!"

"Far more elegant and soignée than the collections presented in many a season, these clothes demand perfumes formal in character, yet gay and modern. There is a luxurious, stimulating perfume, a final grace-note to one's most distinguished 'entrance' frock. For the cocktail hour and the fall whirl of social activity, let another fragrance create for you an aura of insouciance and individuality."

"Advance evening gowns dramatize the regally slender 'sheath' silhouette. Magnificent materials go into these sheaths, glittering laces, rich velvets, silky failles—so the winter calendar of events promises to be one of the most brilliant in years. For such occasions, there is a perfume of exciting far-away places; another full of the witchery of night. But this could go on for pages and pages! You might hear for yourself what a perfume can do for you... if you'd like to know the name of the Boston shop where this consultant is available this week, phone Arline Gould, L.H. 8771, 4000, weekdays until 5:30, or write inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope."

IT'S A VITAL part of your autumn doings... the right perfume to put emphasis on you and tie in with the clothes you wear... and if you're the least bit doubtful about which is the right fragrance to dab behind your pretty ear, Jacqueline Wells demonstrates... let a famous consultant described by Arline Gould help you.

SOCIALITES TO ATTEND KREISLER CONCERT

Mrs. Adelbert H. Morrison, Mrs. Warner Eustis, Miss Katherine Buckley, Miss Marion L. Chapin and Mrs. Robert W. Blodgett are among the hundreds of music lovers planning to attend the concert by Fritz Kreisler Wednesday evening in Symphony Hall. This is the first in the Aaron Richmond Celebrity series.

Fashion Flash

TURBANS out-Miranda the vigorous Carmen, as they twist in the South American way... and it does seem that no wardrobe will be complete without at least one of these intriguing numbers, draped up and high. Sometimes they're studded with golden jewelry for the opulent look. And they're marvelously practical because they cling unyieldingly when wintry winds blow.

Nowadays it isn't only Mrs. Highpocket who can have a furred hat. Trimmings and even whole hats of some nice felt are priced within budget reach. A smart one is a felt bonnet with a poke brim of mink.—ANNICE BRINK.

Home and Kitchen

Substantial Crisp-Day Meals

By MARTHA LEE

Crisp fall days call for more substantial meals—yet every homemaker is interested in having a few quick tricks up her sleeve—nourishing meals that can be prepared with a minimum of effort and time.

As an example, try a bowl of pea soup topped with chunky bread cubes fried in butter; a fat double-decker sandwich made of fluffy scrambled eggs, chips of dried beef and toast served under a luscious tomato sauce, and a big, beautiful bowlful of fruitily flavored Any Season Dessert.

To make this stout supper sandwich, first make a rosy, ruddy colored tomato sauce by thickening a canful of cream of tomato soup, and add shredded American cheese to give a rich and racy rabbit flavor to the dish, using the following proportions:

LUNCHEON RABBIT SANDWICH
2 tbsp. butter
4 tbsp. flour
1 medium (16 oz.) can cream of tomato soup
½ to 1 cup grated American cheese (sharp cheese)

Melt the butter, add the flour and blend well. Cook until bubbling, then add the cream of tomato soup. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Add the cheese and continue heating until melted. Serve over sandwiches (below). Garnish with preserved sweet pickles and ripe mission olives placed on a little mound of watercress.

SANDWICH
For each sandwich have 3 slices of buttered toast. Place scrambled eggs between two slices of toast. Top with dried beef, that has been sautéed in butter. Top with third slice of toast.

For good nibbling with this succulent sandwich, prepare a relish dish of fine flavored fresh cucumber pickle slices, crisp celery curls and carrot flowers. To make the celery curls, take the leafy end of a stalk of celery and scrub the stem end in long thin slivers. Place in a dish of cold water and pop in the refrigerator to chill until each stalk has curled in cunning shapes. Carrot flowers are easily continued by making a series of lengthwise cuts in the carrot about ½ inch deep every half inch or so—then cut very sheer crosscut slices of carrot, drop in water, and refrigerate until each slice has crisped.

ANY SEASON DESSERT
1 pint whipping cream
½ glass currant jelly

BRADSHAW What Is German Economic Status?

Although the economic aspects of war in Europe have received considerable attention, specific, detailed analyses have been notably absent. . . . Their urgent need is satisfied from a German angle by Felix Beyer in the current issue of The Iron Age . . .

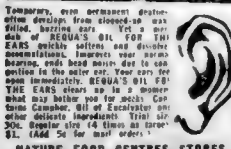

APPARENT . . . Prediction of Allied strategy on blockades makes study of German industrial resources a "must" . . . And it is really this feature the German economist emphasizes. Beyer forecasts breakdown within four to eight months of the German industrial system due to shortages of raw materials and soaring costs accompanying the use of substitute materials. . . . In fact, he goes so far as to hint the reason for the Western Front stalemate is Allied knowledge of the critical situation facing Reich industry. Beyer does not offer his thoughts on a "take 'em or leave 'em" basis as so many commentators have. Instead he puts them forward in the support of vital factors capable of bringing about the collapse.

FIVE WEAKNESSES . . . Each apparently impossible of removal and capable of bringing about a breakdown are listed by economist Beyer. . . . First: Withdrawal of skilled workers from industry for army service; which hampers production. . . . Second: Shortage of everything except coal; which could cause fatal gaps in the industrial system. . . . Third: Lessened efficiency of workmen aggravated by a high average age with youth serving the colors; which means decline production per man. . . . Fourth: The spectre of "involuntary sabotage" resulting from "the hopelessness of life"; which means production is lagging despite Nazi pressure as the hands of workmen stiffen. . . . Fifth: Forced development of substitutes; which throws an intolerable burden on industry and boosts costs to absurd heights. . . .

dence of raw material shortages in the hands of manufacturers is contained in the current report of the National Industrial Conference Board. . . . And it accounts for the buying stampede of early September. . . . During August the board says raw materials in manufacturer hands dropped 4.7 per cent. . . . Bringing its index to the low point level in the seven years of its existence. . . . And down 23 per cent from the April 1, 1933 level. . . . Thus is the bugaboo of wild, unthinking buying laid permanently at rest. . . . The movement, it seems, was nothing more than a return to normal thinking after a period of abnormal abstinence.

ABSENCE . . . Of excesses as manufacturers dropped their self-assumed "poor man's" roles is proven by the accompanying chart. . . . Which shows raw material prices are not high. . . . Even after the rise from mid-August to mid-September is allowed for the average is far under 1937's comparable level. . . . And it has a long way to go before equaling the high of that year. . . . When, presumably, purely domestic recovery factors resulted in a level equaling 90 per cent of the accepted 1928 normal. . . . From all the evidence submitted so far on the buying wave "viewers with alarm" had better seek a subject other than inventories and raw material prices. . . .

BITS O' GOSSIP . . . Phillips Petroleum is down for special attention on the sheets of some brokers. . . . Because they believe its setup is such that special benefits will accrue from aviation. Already considered the largest producer of 100 octane gasoline the company will have a capacity of between 8000 and 10,000 barrels daily of premium grade fuels when its new plant is put in operation after the first of the year. . . . Octane "100" usually commands a price two and one-half times greater than regular gasoline. . . . And Phillips is said to have sold out until April, 1940, on every barrel it can produce. . . . Put it down for a check and buying attention.

Bar Gold Steady

LONDON, Oct. 16 (AP)—Bar gold 168s, unchanged. (Equivalent $33.85 based on the dollar at $40.3.)
Bar silver 23 1/4, off 1/4 penny. (Equivalent 42.16 cents.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Buyers made feeble passes at the stock market today and managed to push up leading issues in fractions to a point or so.

The proceedings were lethargic throughout, with the turnover indicated as the lightest since the start of the European war. Advertisers were fairly well held but numerous issues were unable to register much progress. Happenings abroad served to keep Wall Street thoroughly puzzled, and most traders still inclined to step lightly either way pending more definite signs the overseas conflict would be pressed to a conclusion or an armistice arranged. Arguments were plentiful on both sides of this question.

Domestic business cheerfulness remained as the number one speculative influence, but continuance of the Chrysler labor dispute, with fears union troubles might spread to other industries, served to keep optimism within bounds.

Foreign markets were mixed, with American securities down at Amsterdam. Bonds and commodities also were uneven. The British pound sterling rallied in terms of the dollar.

ICC Gets Old Colony Abandonment Plea

In compliance with the order of the Federal District Court, made on the petition of Old Colony security owners, the Trustees of the Old Colony filed on Oct. 11 a report and petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to abandon the lines of railroad in the Boston Group.

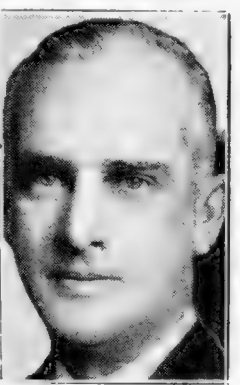

The trustees' report stated that under present conditions they were of the opinion that reorganization of the Old Colony was impossible and that they could see no prospect of sufficient change in the near future to make reorganization possible. Commenting on the report and counsel of the trustees, stated that he wished to emphasize the statement made by him when the security owners filed their petition last week, "if any way can be found through the conferences with Massachusetts authorities to make service in the Boston Group self-sustaining, the trustees would prefer that course and in the event such a solution is found, the abandonment proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission could be withdrawn."

Economy Grocery Net Profits Up

Economy Grocery Stores Corp. reports for the year ended July 1, 1939, net profit of $299,803 after all charges, including taxes. On the 120,000 shares of no-par capital stock net was equal to $2.42 a share. This compares with a profit of $214,173 for the previous year, equal to $1.78 a share. Balance sheet as of July 1, 1939, shows current assets of $2,669,791 including cash of $1,068,837. Current liabilities were $99,133 and net working capital $1,678,458. This compares with working capital of $1,216,479 a year previous.

In reporting to stockholders, Joseph Rabinowitz, president, says: "Although there were 35 fewer units in operation at the close of year than existed at the beginning of the year, sales volume increased $119,025 from $19,585,533 to $19,702,558, which is the largest volume in company's history."

Advertising Club to Hear L. J. McCarthy

L. J. MCCARTHY

"Seeing, Believing and Buying," a new interpretation of magazine advertising, is the intriguing subject chosen by L. J. McCarthy, Director of Marketing, Hearst Magazines, for his luncheon address before members of the Advertising Club of Boston and their guests tomorrow noon at the Hotel Statler. Mr. McCarthy will emphasize in detail sales successes developed by magazines, including stories of companies which have built up profitable national distribution through magazine advertising.

HOLC UNCOVERS HIDDEN LOANS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16 (AP)—The Home Owners Loan Corporation said today that $2,219,000 in "hidden den mortgages" forced on HOLC borrowers by outside interests had been cancelled and nearly $300,000 in cash given back to the borrowers.

Harold Lee, general counsel of the agency, said investigation had disclosed a practice under which mortgage holders agreed to dismiss all claims against properties in return for payments made in HOLC bonds, but "secretly" had forced home owners to sign agreements to pay off additional sums without the knowledge of the HOLC.

AUSTEN LAKE

Harlow and Harvard Swap Mutual Love

BALTIMORE'S FOOTBALL COGNOSCENTI have been whispering all autumn. These brain proud people say that Harvard's Dick Harlow will pack his birds' egg collection, dig up his rock garden and resign his job as head of the swineskin department.

AUSTEN LAKE

Harlow will, they say, accept a similar post for more pay at the University of Maryland, where he is loved not alone for his football magic but as an adopted son of that football conscious public. For, say the cognoscenti, unlike conditions at Harvard, 'taint no sin in Maryland to whistle hairy curmudgeons out of their haymows, or mineboys from their hoists and exchange a college education for the loan of their thick necks and the battering power of their spines.

Harlow has partially shushed all this, issuing a pre-Chicago game bulletin in which he said he is satisfied and trusted that Harvard is satisfied too. Two things equal to the same thing are equal to each other. He hopes to stay in Cambridge for another term of years.

This may have cost Harlow a little pang. For Maryland, just as Penn State did two years ago, has been whinnying sweet-heart calls for him to come down where the males are marvels of ne-manhood, the authorities are not too obdurate, and there is always a little something in the alumni kitty for any emergency.

I hear that Maryland has offered to create one or two effortless jobs to augment Dick's coaching salary and net him, perhaps, $12,000 instead of the regulation $8,000 he draws at Cambridge.

Harvard's Self-Control

HARLOW KNOWS TOO THAT IF A WEALTHY Maryland oyster millionaire rounded up a herd of schoolboy heaves from the adjoining tobacco fields, factories and docks and requested the college registrar to enroll them in the pastry baking, furnace tending or rug beating courses, . . . why, like as not, they would turn up as duly credited scholars.

It has always seemed a triumph in self restraint that Harvard hasn't voted a huge football fund and gone out on the hedgerows and hired a quota of kids with fireproof legs and beer-leg bodies—like the professional ball clubs which sift the rural silt and comb the weeds for the most rubbery set of haychaser's money can buy.

This would be no strain on Harvard's bankroll, which is reckoned at $170,000,000 in assets and cash, or about eight times the wealth of Tom Yawkey's estates.

Perhaps mention of Yawkey is unfortunate in suggesting this to Harvard, because Tom frittered away $4,500,000 without assembling much more than migraine, which is a giant headache. So it is possible that Harvard, like Tom, might spend proportionately for a National champion and have to take its beatings just the same.

There can only be one champion at a time, and at least fifty other colleges of Harvard's size want to be champion too. So they send their recruiting sergeants on annual summer pilgrimages to New England where fresh schoolboy troops are enlisted to fill the ranks riddled by graduation, desertion to the enemy and getting busted up. So Harvard would meet some rugged competition in trying to coax the best football kids to Cambridge.

Alumni Are Always 50 Per Cent Unhappy

HARVARD HASN'T DONE IT SINCE HAUGHTON went away and there are many, including Tack Hardwick, Bill Garcon and Sid Curtis who insist that they didn't do whatever it was they did then. Anyway Harlow has taken the kids which came to hand, poured them over with polish and managed to lick Princeton and Yale two years hand running. That is why Harvard, as he said in his bulletin, is "satisfied."

In this respect Harvard differs drastically from alumni of other institutions, like Maryland for example, where they are never satisfied unless they are licking everybody. They want to lick everybody all of the time. So half the country's alumni are always unhappy each Saturday because victory on one side begets defeat on the other. In case of tie games neither side is happy.

Let's sum up Harlow. I would say that the things I like him for best is not his coaching knack, but his human traits and his way with kids. I have seldom seen a college coach more swept by his own emotions than during the late moments of last autumn's Yale game when he was summoning his hoards off the line field, flinging an arm over their shoulders and helping them into their sheepskin jackets. He gave each a thump and a pat before sending them in to take their baths and have their bruises painted.

Thus is tradition born in the mind of a boy. For in later life, when their concaves have turned to curves, they will recall how Old No. 1 himself administered a paternal hug and a proud word right before 40,000 witnesses and how, at the time, the late November sun had gilded the stadium turrets, how the banners on the rim of the bowl had floated gayly and how the crowd sobbed and roared as the tide of battle awayed this way and that. But mostly they will recapture the fatherly slap and remember Harlow's soft growl saying such endearments as will make music long after the lads have grown soft in their middles, thin in their hair and thick through the hips.

If, in their later time, Radio Common shoots up to 100 they will never get a finer kick in the more pleasurable portions of their souls.

WEILAND TO PILOT
BRUINS FOR ROSS

RALPH COONEY WEILAND
Playing Days End: He's a Bruin Pilot Now

HERSHEY, Pa., Oct. 16—Manager Art Ross, before sending 23 Bruins hockey players through their first workout today, announced that Ralph "Cooney" Weiland will be assistant manager of the National Hockey League champions this season.

FOUR N. E. RING KINGS
IN TOURNEY AT ARENA

Four New England amateur boxing champions and one former Hearst All-America king appear tonight in the third of four Golden Gloves elimination tournaments, staged by the Irish-American A. A. at the Arena.

The four N. E. champions who will endeavor to qualify for the Golden Gloves Grand Finals, Oct. 30 are Tony Peppi, N. E. End, 112; Johnny Leonard, N. E. End, 112; Johnny Leonard, N. E. End, 112; Johnny Leonard, N. E. End, 112; Johnny Leonard, N. E. End, 112.

RED PRIEST

118; Al Dutra, Cambridge, 135, and Red Priest, Cambridge, 147.

The former Hearst All-America champion is Howard Dunderdale. Allston, who is making a comeback in the 126-pound division.

In Peppi's class are Paul Verdotti, Providence; Joe Castor, Boston; Joe Jolly, Athol, and Tony Millick, Taunton.

In the 118s Leonard should come through successfully but Dunderdale will have his hands full with Frank Topazio, Bristol, R. I., Art Samara, Woburn, Al Abbotamatteo, Providence, and Joe Andrews, Dartmouth.

Grand Old Men
Of Grd Teaching
Duel on Friday

STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 16 (AP)—Far from the scenes of their greatest triumphs, two old men will pace the sidelines one night this week during a game that will add a colorful bit of history to football. College of the Pacific and San Jose State meet Friday night. On one side of the field will be Amos Alonzo Stagg, on the other, Glenn Seabury "Pop" Warner.

They're the coaching patriarchs of the country. They have accumulated the grand total of 93 years of teaching gridiron tactics.

Stagg, 77, is the first man ever to coach the sport 50 years. Warner is nine years younger than Stagg, but Stagg always addresses him as "Pop."

Weiland, who is 33 years young, a former center, and captain of the club which won the World's championship last season, will join the team from the Irish-American A. A. supervision of Ross.

Ross will watch play from a point fully high in the stands, and "scout" the opponents' style of play, especially the Bruins' offense and defense. He won't go on to see the game.

Weiland won't play no hockey at all unless injuries necessitate his getting into action, in which case Ross could take over the bench responsibility.

Only two members of the Bruins' squad were absent when the first workout was held on the Hershey rink today. One was Eddie Shore, who will not report until Dec. 15, and the other, Roy Conacher, was expected here late this afternoon or tonight.

Only a hard skating drill was staged today, without sticks, as a warmup for the strenuous seasons ahead.

EX-ELI GREAT DIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 16 (AP)—Philip Tracy Stillman, 66, insurance broker and one-time football great at Yale, is dead here. He played center.

DISTINGUISHED presidents and famous statesmen looked out of oil paintings through curling smoke as Henry Chmielewski, Polish middleweight, and Henry King of Detroit battled in Mechanics Building in Worcester the other night. I once listened to Hubert Valentine, young Irish tenor, give a concert in the same building. Most distinguished Americans who have spoken in Worcester have done so in the same building where the young Polish fighter and the Detroit Negro exchanged blows.

The crowd was packed in on the floor, in the balconies and on the stage. It roared when King knocked Chmielewski down twice in the second round, and later when the Polish champion rallied, punched King around the ring, dropped the colored flash to the canvas in the tenth round, and then won the decision.

The size and enthusiasm of the crowd surprised me. You do not get as much excitement at boxing bouts in Boston.

The bout itself was particularly stirring, and everybody in the hall appeared pleased with the match.

I had been told that boxing was staging a sensational comeback in the smaller cities and towns, and I was anxious to find out what had caused the changed conditions.

"People will always go to see good fights if they have money," volunteered George (Kid) Lee, former New England welterweight champion, who was at the rightside.

"Are there many promising looking fighters?" I asked Lee.

"There are a few," he replied, "and with effort the managers and promoters could develop first class talent. I would like to get a young heavy weight 18 years of age. I would have him live in the country, and do plenty of road work and boxing."

"I would not permit him to have luxuries. I would insist that he work and fight until he became a champion. Soft living and too much money ruin most young fighters. I believe the average youthful punch flinger would be better off if he were given only $25 a week and the remainder of his money was held in trust for him. He would not then be tempted to do foolish things."

I asked Lee what he was doing.

"I have a tavern in town," he replied.

Business Boom Has Helped Boxing

JACK McGRATH, an old time wrestling star and manager of Dan O'Mahony, was at Mechanics Hall. I asked him why boxing was booming in Worcester and in other small cities.

"Because people are working again," replied McGrath. "The steel mills and factories are going full blast. This means increased payrolls. Workmen always liked boxing and wrestling, and they will patronize the right kind of shows."

An athletic, bright looking young man pushed his way through the crowd to greet me. He was Steve Salek, former Lowell boxer.

"I am making my home in Worcester," said Salek. "I have a job in a factory here, and am doing well. I am through boxing, but like the sport and never miss one of our local bouts."

Jimmy Medc came along to say that boxing was also doing well in Fall River.

"I have a club in Fall River," said Medc, "and we are in action every week. The mills are going full time in Fall River, and so there is new money around. Things are picking up."

Chuck Hayes hurried into Chmielewski's dressing room to see if he could talk Harry Kelley into allowing the Polish puncher to meet Lou Brouillard at Portland, Me.

"Chmielewski and Brouillard will draw $3000 in Portland," said Hayes. "The Paul Junior-Honey Melody bout did $3200. That is big money for Portland which a year ago was only doing $1500 at boxing shows. The answer? Good fights and men with jobs."

Valentine Gets Radio Bid

OUTSIDE THE HALL I met Hubert Valentine, Irish tenor, who had given a concert at the Bancroft Hotel earlier in the evening.

"I am going to New York to discuss terms on a radio offer," said the Irish song bird. "I plan to remain in the United States until spring and have requested the Department of Immigration to give me permission to do so. I have signed for several concert appearances in addition to possible radio contracts."

Eddie Shevlin, former New England welterweight champion and at one time boxing coach at Dartmouth, told me he had been at the Chmielewski-King bout. He liked the action.

Shevlin's fine example did more than anything else to get boxing legalized in Massachusetts. In addition to being a brilliant boxer, Shevlin was a scholarly type. Gene Tunney and Shevlin always reminded me of each other. Both did much to take boxing out of the gutter and establish it as a major sport.

I strolled around Worcester and found the late spots well filled.

Paul Bowser and a party of friends were in one of the supper places. They had attended the boxing bout, while they planned new wrestling shows for Worcester.

"We are going to debunk wrestling, and eliminate the freaks, the mud baths, the whiskered grapplers and other side plays," said Bowser. "Wrestling will come back if the promoters show well conditioned, wholesome youngsters who are good athletes and who can wrestle."

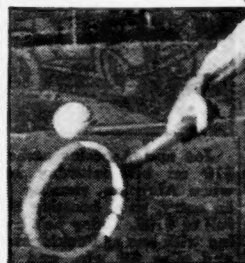

The newboy on the corner said business is good.

"Many of my customers refuse change when they give me a nickel or a dime for a newspaper," said the jubilant youngster. "There is smoke coming out of the chimneys of every factory in Worcester."

I got into my auto, and started for the Worcester turnpike and Boston. As I traveled along through the night, became more convinced than ever that things are picking up, and that this is the best country in the world in which to live.

N. H. TEAM NEXT FOR EVERETT

Everett High School's expected breather at Newton over the past week-end developed into a more serious case of asthma as the Dennie Gidea eleven faced one of its stiffest tests in climbing to the top of the pack, racing towards state titular honors.

The victory, the third in as many starts, jumped the club into the leadership for the state championship, as the running mates were driven to the rocks.

The Everetts had no easy time of it as had been anticipated. As a matter of fact, everything looked very black for the Gidea for the first period as Coach Owen MacDowell's boys twice threatened to score.

But after that bad start, the Everetts started to roll, or, probably more appropriately, fly. Leo Flynn ate up the distance from mid-field to pay-off territory with a pair of aerias. A safety in the final stanza was only incidental.

Newton's threat in the opening canto may be more readily realized by the fact that twice Walter Hurley attempted field goals. Two boots sailed wide of the goalposts as Everett boasted its list of blankings to three.

Saturday, Everett will have the powerful Manchester Central team to contend with, and this club should go a long way in deciding the locals' status in relation to state championship title.

Out in Malden, there probably will be an endless argument over the disallowing of the pair of scores hung up by Coach Warren McGee's boys against Arlington. This tilt, which ended in a scoreless tie, may cost the Golden Tornado top honors in the mythical championship chase.

Not unopposed, undefeated, untied and unscathed upon eleven tated its first bitter dose of the still young campaign as Medford pushed the old record into its 26th year.

Coach Art McManus will be forced to wait another 12 months to take another crack at the jinx, and there won't be a Tilo Margalita on the field to haunt him.

5 N. E. College Elevens Unbeaten and Untied

The New England gridiron stock exchange, which took a sharp tumble on the national market the past few weeks, today began its fifth week with five elevens undefeated and untied.

The quietest boasts only one major loss, Harvard, which closed strong in Chicago, 41 to 0. The spotless Crimson record encounters its first major test Saturday when Pennsylvania, 6 to 0 victor over Yale, rolls into Harvard Stadium.

The other four leaders—Norwich, Bowdoin, Maine and Trinity—are expected to consolidate gains over Worcester, Williams, Connecticut and Hobart, respectively.

Their mission to Georgia successful, the Crusaders of Holy Cross invade Providence Saturday to meet Brown, victim of a 10 to 0 drubbing from Colgate.

At New Haven, a determined Yale Bulldog will bid for an aerial victory over Annapolis.

Back at Hanover, after a draw with the Navy, Dartmouth will face Lafayette.

This was assured today when Gansett officials completed the listing of eligibles upon which preliminary payments have been kept up to date and whose owners have indicated their intention of sending their best youngsters after the valuable prize.

$33,410 FOR WINNER
Nominations for this, the third New England Futurity, closed January 25, 1937, with 801 payments of $10.

On May 20, 1939, 212 made the second payment of $20 and 58 made the third payment of $100 on Aug. 21 of this year.

With $25,000 added, the net value to the winner will surpass the $33,410 won by W. L. Brann's Chalidon last year.

Conditions for the Futurity provide that starters will pay an additional $500. Of the $25,000 added purse, $5000 goes to the second horse, $2000 to the third and $1250 to the fourth.

The nominator of the winner receives $2500, the nominator of the second horse $1250 and the nominator of the third horse $750.

In addition, the breeder of the winner receives $500 whether or not they are the owners of the horse at the time of the running of the race.

Starters are named through the entry box the day before the race at the usual time of closing. For this Futurity starters will be named before 10 o'clock, Friday, Oct. 27.

The New England Futurity was inaugurated in 1936 when Reaping Reward defeated the odds-on Pom-poon to take down the rich reward of $35,850. Ocean Roll finished third that year.

No Futurity was run in 1937 but the renewal last year saw W. L. Brann's Chalidon splash through the mud to defeat Impound, Gilded Knight, Time Alone and other crack juveniles in a race that was packed with thrills from start to finish.

Chalidon enriched the coffers of his owner by $33,410 by that victory, at the same time giving indication that he was to be the wonder horse of 1939.

Joe & Asbestos

By KEN KLING

Joe and Asbestos cashed $19 on his Saturday bet when Abrasion, running as an entry, won, boosting the roll to $169. Today he's trying with one at Rockingham and slips $5 win, and $5 third on Lilies 2-1-16.

Berger Bids For Jockey Lead at Rock

Maurice Berger, the popular jockey from Louisville, has been riding in brilliant fashion, and he'll make his stretch run this week in an effort to cut down the lead of Eddie Robart and W. L. Taylor in the race for jockey honors at the Rockingham meeting. Robart and Taylor went into the Saturday races tied for the leadership with 17 apiece; Apprentice Merrill Pack-er was second with 16; Carroll Bierman, now riding at Keeneland, third with 14, and then came Berger with 12.

Arthur Hulcoff, trainer for F. S. Trumbull, has given an amazing performance at this meeting... he has saddled eight horses for Trumbull, and seven of them have won... his winners have been Lady Flash twice, West Ace twice, Fractorian twice and The Pop once... the leading trainer of the meeting, Dunc McDermid of Fanfare Farms, has had only eight winners, and Hulcoff is tied for second, at seven, along with George Alexandra and R. Farley... the only loser saddled by Hulcoff in his brilliant streak was Fractorian, who lost to Gen. L. by a neck.

Possibly another record has been set at this meeting, too... on Wednesday, Polksong won and paid $224... on Thursday, The Jurist topped down to pay $1144... on Friday, Ready About greeted the judges and paid $13.80... have three such long shots ever scored on three consecutive days at a track where more than 36 per cent of the favorites have won?

H-Y-P Form New Athletic Committee

A new committee on athletic eligibility had been set up today by the presidents of Harvard, Yale and Princeton, part of a new athletic agreement among the "Big Three."

The committee is composed of Dean A. Chester Hanford, Harvard; former Dean Clarence W. Mendell, Yale, and Dean Christian Gaus, Princeton.

It will have final authority to decide all questions of eligibility. Meeting for the first time, two minor changes were made in the original codes of 1916 and 1922.

These were: (1) not to plan football schedules more than four years in advance, and (2) transfer students from junior colleges have been added to the ineligibility list.

Harvard Polishes Up Laterals for Penn

Penn will see plenty of lateral passes when it faces Harvard in the Stadium next Saturday. This is on the word of Dick Harlow, who saw signs in the 61-0 rout of Chicago that his Harvard youngsters were adept at the pass that made Colgate famous.

Norwich Boy Tops Scorers

NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—An all-around performer from a small New England college, Walter Domina of Norwich, heads the point getters on eastern college grids after the second week of October football.

Given an early start, the Norwich coach has played in four games and scored in each one for a total of 40 points, ten more than a half-dozen rivals who are tied for second place. Domina has made five touchdowns, the high mark in that department, converted four points after touchdowns and he is the only eastern player to make two field goals.

Tied for second place Everett Elkins, of Marshall (W. Va.) College; Stine of West Liberty, W. Va.; Shuck of Rensselaer; Hammerstrom of Union and Shoemaker of Gettysburg. They have five touchdowns apiece for 30 points.
